

LOSS WILL RUN INTO MILLIONS

Augusta Flood Worse Than at First Reported.

THE FOOD SUPPLY IS RUNNING LOW

Pestilence Is Feared When the Waters Subside.

The City Will Be Littered With Decaying Matter and All the Cellars Befouled—Life Loss as a Result of the Floods in the Carolinas and Georgia Not So Great as at First Reported.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 27.—With practically the entire city under water, business houses, mills and factories closed, telephone and telegraph communication with the exception of one wire, destroyed, daily newspapers suspended, electric light and power plants put out of commission, and with rowboats the only means of transportation in the main streets, Augusta is experiencing today the worst flood in her history. Last night two telegraph operators swam to the chamber of commerce building and cut in on a wire that had not been carried down by the torrent, and this is now the only means of sending news to the outside world.

The loss will run into the millions and will far exceed that caused by the big flood of 1888. The retail dealers had only recently put in their tall stocks and these were to the most part stored in cellars, all of which were hopelessly flooded before their contents could be removed. The city was in total darkness last night. Street cars have not been running since early yesterday. The union station is under ten feet of water, on Broad street, the flood is five feet deep, and on Green street six feet and still rising.

Word comes from Camden, South Carolina, that there were but five deaths from the collapse of the toll bridge there yesterday. It was first reported that nineteen drowned.

To add to the distress in this city thousands of people are today going hungry. Nearly all of the food supplies of the city have been ruined by the flood.

The death of two women was reported today. Water reached a depth of ten feet in Main street and has subsided but little.

The big bridge across the Savannah river has collapsed.

Owing to the inadequate sewerage and sanitary systems of the city, grave alarm is felt for the health of the people after the waters have subsided.

The city will be littered by decaying matter, cellars be fouled, wells polluted and other sources of disease left in the wake of the flood. The health authorities are considering means to escape the threatened scourge.

Word from Athens, Georgia, says that one-fourth of the city is under water.

Partial Resumption.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 27.—A partial resumption of telegraph service today with the flood devastated sections of Georgia and Carolinas brings additional news of heavy property loss. Two hundred and fifty passengers on the northbound Seaboard train from Florida narrowly escaped death. Only the precaution of the engineer prevented the train from being plunged into the raging Congaree. Fearful that the bridge had been weakened the engineer was sending his train at a creeping pace over the bridge when a span gave way under the express car, with the engine and baggage car over mid-stream. The engineer stopped his train.

The passengers from the day coaches and Pullmans were carried back on hand-cars and brought into Columbia over the Southern. Reports from the western part of the state today indicate a loss of $1,000,000. Every river in the state is on a rampage and millions of acres are inundated. Railroad traffic is suspended on the main lines of the Southern between Charlotte and Atlanta by the loss of a number of important bridges.

The Seaboard between Hamlet and Atlanta is out of commission as is the Southern between Greenville and Columbia, and the C. & W. C. between Laurens and Greenville and Laurens and Augusta and the C. C. & L. between Columbia and Laurens. The upper third of the state is cut off from Columbia by rail, telephone and telegraph.

Special Bulletin.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The weather bureau gives out the following summary of the flood situation in the South:

"The heavy rains that have fallen continually since Sunday over the Carolinas and eastern Georgia have caused widespread floods of the most dangerous and destructive character. The Savannah river at Augusta, Georgia, has reached a stage of forty feet and the city is flooded.

"The Catawba river of North Carolina and the Wateree and Pedee rivers of South Carolina have exceeded all previous stages by several feet, while eastern North Carolina reports indicate the greatest flood ever known in that section. The rainfall was particularly heavy in the vicinity of Raleigh, North Carolina, where the total fall since Sunday is ten inches. The losses and damage are enormous. Railroads have annulled trains, bridges having been washed away, roads rendered impassable and large areas of crops destroyed. The Oconee and Ocmulgee rivers of Georgia are also above flood stage."

JUST SKYLARKING SAYS COMMANDER

But the Victim Has a Radically Different View.

San Francisco, Calif., Aug. 27.—Denied redress by Lieutenant Commander Eberle of the training ship, Pensacola, for a hazing by two of his fellow-apprentices which may make him totally blind, Earl Irey today declared his intention of taking his case to the army heads at Washington where he will ask that his hazers, J. Guy and J. Valerius, be tried by general court-martial on a charge of attempted murder.

Irey, who enlisted from Caldwell, Kansas, a few months ago, was hazed while the Pensacola was at the training station at Yerba Buena, on Goat island on August 10. Just "to see his eyes bulge out," his fellow apprentices are said to have thrown a rope over a hook and suspended him by the neck for five minutes.

When discovered and rescued by Master-at-Arms Benton, Irey's neck was so swollen that it was with difficulty that the noose was cut away. For two days he lay at the point of death and now is unable to see.

"Just skylarking," was Commander Eberle's comment when complaint was made, but Irey says he will have Washington pass on that.

GOVERNOR WILL NAME DENMAN

He Is Believed To Be Man Picked for Ellis' Place.

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—With the announcement at Washington of the acceptance by Attorney General Wade H. Ellis of Ohio, of the appointment as assistant attorney general of the United States, speculation is rife as to when Mr. Ellis will throw the Ohio attorney generalship open to appointment by Governor Harris.

The weight of opinion here, in the absence of Mr. Ellis, is that he will not resign until after the election. But should Mr. Ellis resign before election, none doubt that Governor Harris will appoint U. G. Denman, Republican nominee, for the office.

UNKNOWN TO POLICE ARE TRICKS SHOWN

Yeggman Explains Yegg Methods of Cracking Safes.

New York, Aug. 27.—Newark police officials and Newark detectives are today transcribing notes taken yesterday at a practical demonstration of safecracking by one of the best Yeggmen in the country. "Humpty" George E. Williams, the safe-blowing in Newark, displayed his skill at Central office, demonstrating a new kind of burglar jimmy, the use of dynamite, nitroglycerin and soap-tricks he had picked up while a student at Sing Sing.

Williams willingly showed the officials methods hitherto unknown to the police whereby Yegg artists gain entrance and egress to building and safes.

CONNECTICUT BACKS LILLEY

His Nomination for Governor Is Generally Conceded.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 27.—The bitter three-cornered fight between Congressman George L. Lilley, Governor Woodruff and Lieutenant Governor Lake for the Republican nomination for governor, practically came to an end today when it became known that at six town caucuses last night Lilley gained sixteen delegates to the state convention. Even Lilley's bitterest opponent, the New Haven Courier Journal, had admitted that he only needed eleven delegates to have a majority, and today it concedes him the nomination.

PERPETRATOR OF MANY MURDERS

Is Believed Taken by Police of Alarcon.

SIX DEATHS ARE ATTRIBUTED TO HIM

Has Murdering Worked Down to a Science.

The Man Under Arrest Is Mayor Tortosa, a Celebrated Spanish Physician—Is Said To Cut Up and Burn His Victims So Scientifically as To Leave Not the Slightest Trace of the Remains.

Alarcon, Spain, Aug. 27.—In the arrest of Mayor Tortosa, a celebrated physician, the police believe they have found the perpetrator of more than a half dozen "scientific murders" that have baffled them for months. The crime that led to Tortosa's arrest was the murder of his mother-in-law's brother-in-law, whom Tortosa is accused of inviting to his house to spend the night.

The relative was placed in an unventilated room and during the night he was asphyxiated by fumes from a small charcoal burner, which the police say, Tortosa manipulated. Tortosa sought to inherit the wealth of his kinsman.

In this same death chamber Tortosa is accused of putting six patients to death, robbery being the motive in every case. After a recent quarrel with his landlord, Tortosa invited him to a reconciliation dinner, during which he is charged with piercing the landlord's brain with a pin, causing instant death.

The bodies of the victims were scientifically dissected and burned.

The police expect a confession from Tortosa.

SWINDLERS USE THE NAME OF COUNTESS

To Catch the Upper Crust of Hungarian Society.

Budapest, Aug. 27.—Revelations made today of the operations of a company of swindlers at Arpad, who used the name of Countess Ladislans Szechenyi, formerly Gladys Vanderbilt, in securing subscriptions for a fictitious publication, show that the upper crust of Hungary's society is as susceptible to the glamour of a high-sounding name as that of any other country.

The company, purported to publish a book, "Jokish Jakass" and with the prospectus was a forged statement, signed by the countess, in which she expressed admiration for the book and announced her gift of $1,000,000 to the publishers in order that the price might be reduced from $48 to $14.

Hundreds of people were duped by the scheme and the "publishing house" was flooded with checks. The police finally swooped down on the place, but the fakirs had fled. It is estimated that the swindlers obtained $25,000. Police all over Hungary are searching for the men.

SMALL BOYS ARE BEATEN BY LARGE

Wells Size of One's Hand Are Raised on Their Bodies.

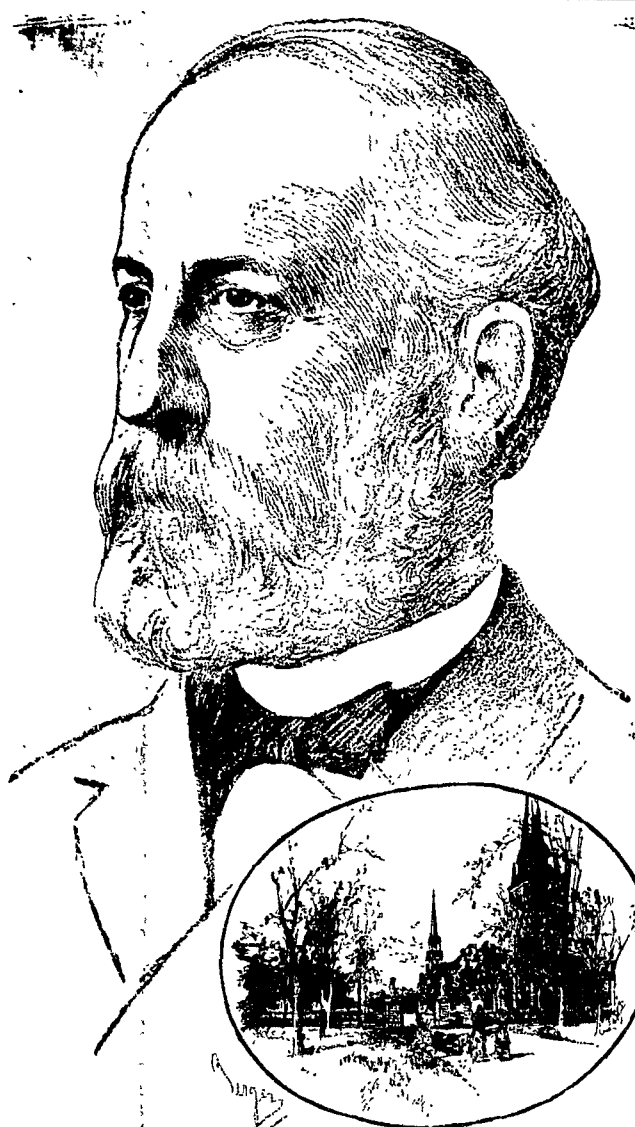

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Stripped of their clothing, tied to trees and cruelly lashed with switches, today two little boys caused the arrest of two older youths on charges of beating them until welts as large as a man's hand were raised on their bodies. The alleged victims are Richard Enger, twelve, and Richard Keenley, seven. The accused are Arthur Holmgren, sixteen, and Joseph Casiboin, eighteen.

Enger declares the older lads asked him if he could swim and when they went to the creek and stripped, his assailants tied him to a tree and beat him. The alleged assault occurred in Jefferson park, a sparsely settled locality. According to Keenley, he was playing in the vicinity when the Holmgren and Casiboin boys came along and without any provocation caught and beat him.

The police are investigating.

To Take New Job.

Tokyo, Aug. 27.—Baron Jotaro Komura, former Japanese ambassador to England, arrived today to assume the post of foreign minister in place of War Minister Kerauchi, who was filling the office temporarily. Japan is secretly negotiating with England relative to a successor to Komura who will be acceptable to the British.

WILLIAM F. VILAS, EX-CABINET MEMBER.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 27.—Colonel William F. Vilas, former United States senator and member of the late President Cleveland's cabinet, died here today after a five weeks' illness, starting from hemorrhage of the brain.

William Freeman Vilas was born in Chelsea, Vermont, July 9, 1840, and moved with his parents to Madison, Wisconsin, in 1851. He began the practice of law in 1861, but in 1862 recruited a company, Twenty-Third Wisconsin volunteers, and went to the front. He was promoted to be a lieutenant colonel and commanded his regiment in the Vicksburg campaign. After several years of political activity, during which time he became a national figure, he was appointed postmaster general by President Cleveland in 1885, serving until 1888. He was also secretary of the interior from 1888 to 1889. He was United States senator from 1891 to 1897 and thereafter devoted himself to the practice of law and the compilation of law and historical books.

Two Hundred Thousand People

Blacken the Shores and Hills About Sydney, Thursday, and Watch the Fleet Sail Away Until It Is Dissipated in the Blue Haze Off Port Jackson.

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 27.—As the smoking funnels of the last of the sixteen American battleships were dissipated in the blue haze off Port Jackson this morning, 200,000 people of Sydney and New South Wales turned regretfully back to what for the next few days must seem a humdrum existence.

The silent sea-fighters steamed majestically away in single file headed by the Connecticut, and cheered by the crowds that blackened the shores and hills. Thousands of sailors answered the cheers and salutes from the decks of the ships. Steaming at twelve knots an hour, the fleet expects to reach Melbourne near noon on Saturday. Before sailing today, Admiral Sperry received messages from Melbourne telling of the great preparations made to welcome and entertain the fleet. Premier T. Bent telegraphed as follows:

"On the eve of your departure from Sydney, with the fleet under your command, on behalf of the government and people of Victoria, I wish you bon voyage to Port Phillip. I assure you that a whole-hearted welcome to our shores is awaiting yourself and all the officers and men of the fleet."

THE FIRM OF BROWN & COMPANY

The Brown Company Is Marked for Slaughter.

Big Fellows Fear the Passage of an Anti-Gambling Law Which Would Practically Kill All the Big Plunges on the Market—Hence It Is Determined by the Big Fellows To Make Brown Firm the Goat.

New York, Aug. 27.—"Standard Oil and the Morgan interests marked the firm of A. O. Brown & Company for slaughter," said a well-known operator on the stock exchange today, "because they feared the passage of an anti-gambling law which would practically kill all their big plunges on the market."

"And you'll see," the operator continued, "that the Brown firm will be made 'the goat' to convince the public that the big men of the street frown on gambling. By the Standard's control of the banks, A. O. Brown & Company were driven to the wall, not because they were not sound enough, but because they were denied credit for a political purpose."

This view of the case is general today in Wall street. The daring operations of the Brown firm were considered a danger to the plan of keeping everything quiet. For this reason, it is said, Brown & Company were refused credit even though they offered as security $7,000,000 in bonds. The attitude of the banks is taken in the street today as indicating that the stock exchange has also marked the firm for at least a severe disciplining.

Outcome Is Uncertain. Whether the five investigators named by President Thomas—who are all governors of the exchange—will make A. O. Brown & Company the scapegoat and will suffer the other firms who took part in last Saturday's carnival of "wash sales" to escape scot free, is as yet uncertain.

The committee has announced that all its deliberations and investigations will be secret.

E. P. Buchanan, one of the principals in the Brown firm, gave color to the stories that his firm had been marked for slaughter in a statement issued today, in which he said in part:

"Our failure was caused by the sudden refusal of our banks to certify our checks as they have always done, and by the attitude of the stock exchange."

Summoned by the investigating committee, Mr. Buchanan and two of his associates, A. O. Brown and Lewis Ginter Young, practically defied that body.

While they will say nothing on the subject, the members of the Brown firm make it plain by their attitude that they will not be made the "scapegoat" for the exchange without a struggle.

Gambling To Be Checked.

New York, Aug. 27.—Five of the leading bankers of New York have decided that Wall street stock gambling must be checked. Today the third of a series of secret meetings was held by these bankers and it was agreed that, unless the stock exchange takes drastic measures immediately, the lesson given to A. O. Brown & Company by the bankers, who admit responsibility for the suspension, will be repeated.

Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the National City bank, was asked today about the meeting, but refused to discuss the matter.

"It is not proper or dignified for a bank to talk of this matter," he said. "The stock exchange should do its own house-cleaning."

Refusing to be quoted on the ground that it would give the public a false impression, one of the first half a dozen prominent bank presidents of New York said today: "The executive board of the stock exchange knows at last that the banks of this city will not stand for any more wild gambling. They cannot afford to."

"The banks can stop much of the gambling if they wish and they may be forced to do so by legislative action. They prefer to get the credit with the public of acting on their own volition. They must act to protect their own conservative clients."

President Thomas, of the stock exchange, was in secret session with the members of the executive commission today going over the affairs of the failure of A. O. Brown & Company. A message was sent to him, informing him that a secret meeting of bankers was in session and that the members could expect to be informed by banks that a decided change must be made in the rules of the exchange.

Mr. Thomas' reply was that he knew all he wanted to know about the affairs of Brown & Company, and the bankers' meeting.

POLICE BELIEVE IT BLACK HAND JOB

Little Girl Stolen from Her Home Is Found by Boys.

Woodbury, N. J., Aug. 27.—While the police and detectives of Philadelphia were making a widespread search for Rockiana Mazzarelli, the two-year-old daughter of Frank Mazzarelli, of that city, boys playing in the woods near Southwestville found the child, bedraggled and half dead from exposure and hunger. They carried her to Westville, where Mrs. Walter Duncan gave her nourishment and put on dry clothing. The police were notified today and search is being made for two men who are alleged to have been seen with the little one near here.

The girl was playing in front of her home about 11 a. m. Tuesday. Half an hour later she was missed by her parents.

Special Officer Vignola, of Philadelphia, believes the job to be the work of members of the Blank Hand. Mazzarelli, the child's father, is reputed to be wealthy.

Shows Hughes Sentiment.

New York, Aug. 27.—Friends of Governor Hughes declared today that it was absurd for those who oppose the renomination of the governor to attempt to show that the primaries of Tuesday were an indication of sentiment against him. They say a careful canvass of the results in all the district showed the strength of the Hughes sentiment.

DISAPPEARANCE OF RALPH EDDY

Case Develops into Full-Grown Mystery.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST TRACE IS FOUND

Despite Efforts of the Police of the Country.

Bride Is Prostrated, but Refuses To Abandon the Hope That She Will Soon Hear of Him—Sickness, Sudden Insanity and Foul Play Are Offered as Explanations, but None of Them Is Satisfactory.

Wooster, Ohio, Aug. 27.—For seven days a fear-stricken sweetheart and an anxious father have waited for news from Ralph W. Eddy. But no word has come to relieve their suspense, and no clue has been found to explain why, on the eve of his marriage to the girl whom he had courted since childhood, the young groom suddenly disappeared.

The explanations of sickness, sudden insanity and foul play have been taken up and discarded in turn. The police of four cities have searched in vain for some solution of his absence, and officers of cities throughout the country have been on the lookout for him. But he has neither been seen nor heard from. What was at first a strange case has now become a full-grown mystery.

On August 15, just one week before the day set for their marriage, Miss Lucy Warren, Wooster society belle, received a letter from young Eddy telling of his plans. The letter was written from Milwaukee, where he said he had been called on business from Chicago. He would arrive in Wooster for the wedding not later than Tuesday, August 18, the letter said.

Eddy Does Not Arrive.

Tuesday passed, but he did not arrive. Wednesday and Thursday passed—without word. Friday brought no answer to the frantic telegrams dispatched in search of him. Preparations for the wedding were stopped, the invitations called in and the bride took to her room, prostrated.

Through all of the illness and suspense of the last five days, Miss Warren has never given up hope for an instant. The young man was in Wooster only three weeks ago, and in his pocket he carried a folded paper that he joyously showed to his betrothed. It was the diagram of a flat on Whithrop street in Edgewater, a suburb of Chicago. During his visit they spent most of the time bending over the paper deciding just where every article of furniture should be placed.

All of the circumstances of the courtship of Miss Warren and Eddy that has shrouded two prominent families in Wooster in gloom, make the disappearance of the bridegroom the most remarkable on record.

What Became of Him?

But what did become of Ralph Eddy? What could happen to a big robust fellow five feet ten inches tall especially noticeable for a florid face and reddish brown hair, even if he was seized with delirium could the earth open and swallow him up? Wouldn't some one have noticed so conspicuous a figure? Could thugs so completely dispose of a man that no trace of him would remain?

These are the questions that every one in Wooster is discussing, for no one considers for a minute that Miss Warren's anguish is due to any faithlessness on his part.

Captain Eddy, the young man's aged father, winks back the tears and says he doesn't know what to do next. Representatives are in Chicago working desperately on the case.

A Girl Floater.

HATCH COMPLAINS TO POLICE OF A ROBBERY

Claims He Is Robbed by Shirlee Judy, August 8.

LITTLE CREDENCE IS GIVEN MAN'S STORY

Police Think If Hatch Is Robbed He Should Have Reported the Matter at Once—John Schweikendick Is Fined for Being Drunk and Disorderly.

J. T. Hatch reported to the police, Thursday, that he had been robbed the night of August 8, by Shirlee Judy, colored, and relieved of his silver watch, which was the only thing of value on his person. Hatch claimed that he and Judy were en route north on north Prospect street when the latter hit him in the head and knocked him down. He did not care to file an affidavit for Judy's arrest, but believed that the watch could be recovered without trouble as he claimed he saw Judy with the timepiece Wednesday. The officers put little credence in the story of Hatch for reason that he did not report it after he discovered the loss after the alleged hold-up.

John Schweikendick, who was arrested near the court-house, last Saturday evening, on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct, and who put up money for his appearance, Tuesday evening, pleaded not guilty to the charge when arraigned before the mayor and his hearing was sent for Wednesday evening. Schweikendick failed to appear, Wednesday evening, but sent word through Officer Frame that he was guilty of the charge. He was fined five dollars of the amount he left for security.

The Patrick English home on Silver street was burglarized, about 11 o'clock Tuesday night, but before the thieves had thoroughly searched the house they were frightened away. Members of the family were awakened by a noise down stairs and started down to investigate. As they reached the foot of the stairway, the front door was closed with a jar and two men were heard running off the porch. An investigation was made and it was found that the down-stairs portion of the house had been ransacked, drawers having been pulled from their places and the contents scattered over the floor. The police were called and a search was made for the burglars, but they had made good their escape. Nothing was missing. It is believed the fellows were in search of money as it was pay night at the shops where members of the family are employed. This is the third attempt to burglarize the house made recently.

R. P. Perry, who conducts a livery stable at the rear of the European hotel, reported to the police, Tuesday, that a stranger had hired a rig of him Sunday night and has since failed to show up or return the outfit. Perry made inquiries over the county concerning the rig, but could find no trace of it. A description was given the police and inquiries have been sent out to the neighboring cities.

Is Unconscious and Suffering of a Broken Shoulder and Very Bad Internal Injuries—It Is Feared the Injuries Suffered by Ritter May Result in His Death.

Adam Ritter, aged fifty years, an employe on the sewer being constructed on Summit street, is in a serious condition as the result of being buried by a cave-in, while at work in the trench, Thursday, about 10 o'clock. Ritter was digging at a depth of nine feet below the surface when the sides of the trench fell in upon him burying him up to the neck and rendering him completely helpless.

Workmen rushed to the scene and at once started digging the man out. When rescued from his perilous position, he was unconscious and the Hess & Market ambulance was summoned. He was removed to the Dr. C. E. Sawyer sanatorium and on examination it was found that his left shoulder was broken and that he was suffering of internal injuries that may result in his death.

New Fashion in Cards.
A new fashion in visiting cards is coming into vogue in England. This is to print on the back of the card a little plan showing the residence and the adjacent streets. One well known liberal member of parliament, for instance, has on the back of his cards a plan of Gray's Inn in London which shows at a glance where his rooms are situated.

A SLIGHT WRECK ON BIG FOUR WEDNESDAY

Several Cars Are Badly Damaged, Corn Lost.

NO CIGARETS FOR THE ROCK ISLAND

Thieves Enter a Boxcar at Owen and Steal Cans—Some Changes Being Made in the Gas-House of the Erie in West Marion—Some Railroad Notes of Interest.

The Big Four right-of-way just west of Oak street was the scene of a slight wreck, Wednesday evening, about 8 o'clock. A heavy eastbound freight train was pulling up the hill and was stalled. A passenger engine which had just been overhauled was drawing the train on its test run. The conductor cut the train in two and took half of it to the east yards. Returning for the rest of it, the engine collided with the rear car, which was being pushed up the hill by an Erie switch engine, in charge of an engineer who did not know the train had been cut in two. As a result several cars were badly damaged and a large amount of corn was wasted. A watchman was placed in charge of the corn, which was strewn along the tracks, but nearly 100 bushels were carried away.

Relative to the removal of the local car-repair shops and offices and a probable increase of force, an Erie official stated, Wednesday afternoon, that for the present there will be no other changes, except that the repair work for the Cincinnati division will be done here and taken away from Gallon. He further said, that men will be added as the work warrants an increase of force. The change is made to relieve Foreman Mackay of Gallon of his heavy work. At present he is crowded with over 100 cars waiting his attention. His tracks have always been crowded, and it has been only by strenuous labor that he has been able to render the efficient service that he has in this line for the last few years. He will continue to make his headquarters at Gallon, at least for the present.

A force of men started work, Wednesday, to completely overhaul the Erie gas house. About a month ago, some new equipment was added to the plant, but the work the plant has to handle here makes further improvements necessary.

The Arkansas division of the Rock Island railroad has issued a bulletin forbidding the smoking of cigars by employes of the road. Violators of the order will be dismissed.

Monday, thieves broke into a boxcar at Owen and stole over 100 caps. The detectives of the company are now trying to locate the thieves.

MRS. W. F. PASTERS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Death Comes as Result of a Long Illness.

TUBERCULOSIS IS CAUSE OF DEMISE

Mrs. Pasters Is a Young Woman Having Many Pleasing Qualities and Is Held in High Regard by Many Friends—Husband and One Son Mourn Their Great Loss.

Emily Grace Pasters, aged twenty-nine years, wife of Dr. William F. Pasters, died at her home at No. 344 Pearl street at 7:20 o'clock Thursday morning, of tuberculosis. For the past year Mrs. Pasters had been suffering of the dreaded disease and the life spark was slowly dying. During the past several months she has been confined to her bed most of the time. It was not until the last month that she gave up hopes of regaining her health and even since that time has been in the best of spirits.

Mrs. Pasters was a charming young woman with a large circle of friends. She was of a lovable disposition and so attached to her home that she could not be induced to take a trip for her health when her condition was first recognized. Aside from her husband she leaves one son, John, whose fifth birthday anniversary was Friday. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Craig, who with her three sisters and two brothers are left. Her brothers and sisters are Eugene Craig, of Philadelphia; Mrs. J. W. Thew, Mrs. Frank Phillips, Miss Gertrude and Mr. Frank Craig, of this city.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will be private.

TREAT SEED WHEAT TO PREVENT SMUT

Two Methods Which the Farmer May Follow.

The botanist of the Ohio Experiment station has determined from direct examinations and from reports received, that stinking smut or bent of wheat is widespread in Ohio wheat fields the present season. This trouble is caused by the stinking smut fungus, and when present in the seed wheat this disease is produced in the next year's crop. Wheat growers are advised, therefore, to treat seed wheat, if any stinking smut is present. A perfectly clean crop can be grown from smutted seed. There are two well known, successful methods of treatment, viz., the hot water and the formalin methods; of these the latter is easier to apply.

Formalin, of forty per cent formaldehyde solution in water, may be obtained at most drug stores. Mix one pint or pound of this thoroughly in forty gallons of water; this makes the solution to use, and is enough to treat about fifty bushels of seed wheat. A perfectly clean crop can be grown from smutted seed. There are two well known, successful methods of treatment, viz., the hot water and the formalin methods; of these the latter is easier to apply.

Place seed wheat to be treated on clean swept, tight floor in piles of convenient size to be stirred throughout. Sprinkle the formalin solution from sprinkling can or nozzle upon the pile, with stirring to bottom of pile, until all possible is absorbed. After a few minutes interval, repeat the operations of sprinkling and stirring; these are again repeated until at least three quarts of solution to a bushel of grain has been absorbed. One gallon a bushel is not too much.

The pile is then covered with cloth or canvas for about two hours, the covering is then removed and the grain stirred at intervals by shoveling over to dry it. It is then ready to sow at any time.

Caution: In handling treated grain do not get it again smutted. The shovel, the drill, the grain bags and any other portions of floor used should be sterilized by use of the formalin solution. The bags may be soaked in it for half an hour and the others treated by sprinkling.

If preferred the bags of grain may be dipped in the formalin solution contained in a suitable vessel; after thorough immersing the bags should be left in the formalin for ten minutes, then withdrawn, the grain allowed to stand two hours in the bags and then spread to dry on a sterile surface.

A less convenient method but just as effective to kill smut, is to dip the bags of grain for ten minutes in hot water at a temperature of 133 degrees Fahrenheit; then dry on sterilized surface. Either of these seed treatments will kill the spores of other diseases such as scab and anthraxose in the seed grain.

Seed grain may be submitted to the station botanist for examination to determine the presence of stinking smut and other grain diseases. Applications for bulletins, etc., may be made to the Experiment station, Wooster.

SEVEN COACHES QUICKLY ROBBED

Lone Highwayman Makes a Very Rich Haul.

ROBS TOURISTS IN YELLOWSTONE PARK

Soldiers Are in Hot Pursuit of the Bandit.

Owing to the Government Regulations About Carrying Weapons, the Tourists Are Unable to Defend Themselves When Confronted at Bend of Road by Masked Man with Gun.

Old Faithful Inn, Yellowstone Park, Aug. 25.—A highwayman held up seven stage coaches five miles from Old Faithful Inn and robbed the tourists of more than $6,000. The bandit escaped. Two troops of cavalry and a squad of government scouts are in pursuit.

The coaches left the hotel at intervals of a few minutes and were held up one after another as fast as they came in sight by the lone highwayman, who was stationed at a bend in the road, where he was invisible from either direction. At the point of a rifle he lined up the passengers, and after relieving them of money and valuables allowed them to enter the stage and resume the journey. This performance the bandit enacted seven times. It is understood that he collected in all more than $1,000. The fact that tourists in the park are not permitted to carry weapons made it impossible for any of the passengers or drivers to offer resistance. The robber was a man about 55 years old, weighing about 140 pounds. After holding up the last coach he disappeared into the hills. All haste was made back to the Old Faithful Inn to give the alarm. The soldiers encamped at the Thumb station were immediately notified and a messenger was dispatched to the camp of soldiers on the West Gallatin river, at the west boundary of the park. The soldiers from Fort Yellowstone were on the road to take up the trail within 10 minutes.

Another Version of Hold-up. Butte, Mont., Aug. 25.—Three troops from Yellowstone today are hot on the trail of a lone highwayman who yesterday held up and robbed the 125 passengers of eleven stage coaches in Yellowstone park single-handed and in true western style. He stopped each coach within a few miles of Old Faithful Inn from where the coaches had started at several minutes intervals. In statements of passengers, it is estimated that the bandit obtained approximately $2,000 in cash, drafts worth $10,000 and a rich haul in watches and jewelry.

In all twenty-one coaches left the upper geyser basin in the morning. The highwayman was encountered five miles further on at a lonely point along the banks of the spring creek a tributary of Fire river. The first lot of coaches, numbering seven, passed the place unharmed.

As the first of the eight following came along, the highwayman stepped from the bushes, covered the driver with a rifle and ordered him to halt. On the front seat sat B. Drew of Orlando, Florida, and his stepson, H. Gaskin. Drew looking into the gun, handed over $30, while Gaskin was directed to hold the sack, while the robber went along the line of eight coaches. Every driver was warned not to start his team or he would be shot.

Forest Stevens of Wilkesbarre, Pennsylvania, gave a nervous laugh which enraged the bandit, who ordered Stevens to get out and accompany him. Stevens started around the rig, but was hit over the head with the butt end of a revolver by the highwayman.

These eight coaches had hardly gone when three more came along and were treated similarly. In one of these was M. L. Walker, an Oklahoma banker, who attempted to hide $10,000 in drafts. He was observed by the robber who compelled him to turn over everything he had.

When the last coach had passed the robber took a horse belonging to the government transportation company and fled to the hills. The soldiers encamped at the Thumb station were notified and within ten minutes were after the highwayman. The bandit, however, is in rough country, and, if apprehended, it will probably require some time to effect his capture. It is thought he is heading for a point between Big Springs and Ashton station on the Oregon Short line Yellowstone park branch.

SINCLAIR AFTER THE WALL STREET KINGS

In His New Novel, "The Money Changers," Just Out.

New York, Aug. 25.—With theft, fraud and lying as their vocations, and the betrayal of women as their pleasure, Wall street kings are pictured in a new novel, "The Money Changers," by Upton Sinclair, the publication of a summary of which is today convulsing New York's society and financial circles. In his new book, the author of "The Jungle" makes the most bitter attack on the morals of the financial set which has yet been printed. He pictures the well-known men of the street, thinly disguised under fictitious names, as wholly without truth or honor and practically charges that a recent disastrous panic was brought on by a big trust company officer, recently a suicide, in the effort to force from a woman submission to his designs. Episodes in the history of the Steel trust and the Mississippi Steel company, which is the Tennessee Coal & Iron company, figure in the novel in unpleasant guise. One figure of national note is described in one incident as "glaring like some terrible wild beast" at the woman he pursues.

The greatest pleasure a woman has from going out to dinner at a restaurant is telling all the things they had to eat which they really didn't. —New York Press.

TALKS INTO PHONOGRAPH

Mr. Taft Takes Foreign Missions for Subject.

CANDIDATE A FIRM BELIEVER IN THEM

Is Converted by His Trip to the Orient.

"We Are Not the Whole World" Is the Burden of His Thought—Others Are Entitled to Our Aid—As we, as Citizens, Help Aged and Infirm, So Should We as a Nation Help the Feeble.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 25.—Rivaling "The Prince of Peace" lecture by Bryan, which, canned in a phonograph, is being heard throughout the country, Candidate Taft has delivered a speech into a phonograph on the subject of foreign missions. "We are not the whole world," is the burden of the delivery. "Others are entitled to our aid."

Mr. Taft's speech in part is as follows: "I have known a good many people who were opposed to foreign missions. I have known a good many regular attendants at churches—consistent members—that religiously, if you choose to use that term, refused to contribute to foreign missions. I confess that there was a time when I was enjoying a smug provincialism that I hope has left me now, when I rather sympathized with that view. Until I went to the Orient, I did not realize the immense importance of foreign missions. The truth is, we have got to wake up in this country. We are not all there is in the world. There are lots besides us and there are lots of people besides us that are entitled to our effort and our money and our sacrifice to help them on in the world.

"The spirit of Christianity is pure democracy. It is the equality of man before God—the equality of man before the law, which is, as I understand it, the most God-like manifestation that man has been able to make. "It is my conviction that our nation is just as much charged with the obligation to help the unfortunate peoples of other countries that are thrust upon us by fate, onto their feet to become a self-governing people, as it is the business of the wealthy and fortunate in a community to help the infirm and the unfortunate of that community."

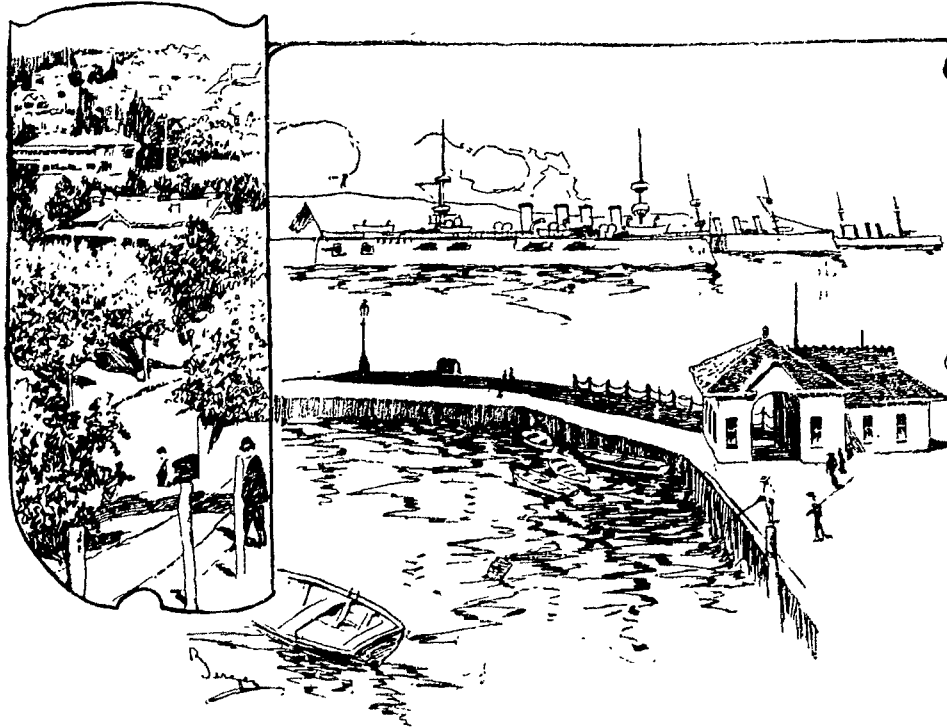

NOISELESS DEVICE A GREAT SUCCESS

Maxim's Patent Works Excellently on Army Rifle.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25.—Army officers here today declare that the noiseless device of Hiram P. Maxim as attached to the regulation United States army rifle is a success. In experiments on the ranges here, Maxim's device cut down the sound area of the shot from 5,700 yards to 1,500 yards, at which distance the report of the firearm was similar to the click of a hammer of an empty shell. The men firing the test shots said there was practically no noise as the bullet left the barrel. The loss in the bullet's velocity is estimated at five per cent.

SIGHTS THAT GREETED AMERICAN SAILORS WHEN THE FLEET REACHED SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA.

It is probable that no other foreign city in the world will accord the American fleet a more generous welcome than Sydney, Australia. This, the oldest and most populous center on the continent end, is the greatest wool market in the world. The first glimpse the American sailors got of it was the high hill rising from the harbor and dotted with the magnificent villas of the sheep barons. The hospitality of the Australians is proverbial everywhere, and the reception that Sydney prepared for the Americans was ample guarantee to Jack that he was as welcome as the spring flowers that he found the country clothed in.

BRYAN TALKS ABOUT TRUSTS

Rev. Gavisk delivered a short invocation, after which spectators and committees stood while the band played "America."

Talk by Mack. Norman E. Mack, chairman of the national committee, was then introduced by Taggart. Mr. Mack expressed his gratification over being permitted to address an assemblage of so distinguished a character, that, as he had been selected by the national committee to work and not to talk, he would not enter into an extended discussion. He declared however that there was little doubt that the Democratic party would be successful at the polls at the coming election, insisting that he had reasons to know that the public were aroused to the "misgovernment of the Republican party."

Mack was followed by Theodore Bell, of California, who, by virtue of his acting as temporary chairman of the Denver convention was named chairman of the notification committee. Mr. Bell made a short speech referring to Mr. Kern's worth as a citizen and stating that he could be depended on as a candidate to see that the principles of the platform adopted at Denver were rigidly adhered to. He dwelt especially upon the fact that in his opinion Mr. Kern was fully qualified to take up the work of Mr. Bryan should the latter, by any chance, be disabled after he assumed the presidency.

Kern stood facing Bell during the latter's address and when he had concluded, he was warmly applauded.

Kern Accepts Nomination.

Prolonged applause greeted Mr. Kern as he accepted the nomination. It was some minutes before he was able to begin his speech, and many times during his address his audience voiced its admiration of the speaker and approval of his utterances. Mr. Kern in part said:

In Accord With Platform. The question of tariff taxation is one of vital interest. I am in hearty accord with our platform declaration on that subject. The Republican candidate for vice president in his recent speech of acceptance lauded the Dingley bill, and declared that when enacted it was well adapted to existing conditions, but proceeded to add that the developments of industrial prosperity have so altered conditions that in certain details of schedules they no longer in every particular meet out justice to all. For these reasons he declared in favor of a readjustment of the tariff, and a reduction of protection for all American interests, like for labor and capital, for producers and consumers. The hundreds of thousands of workmen who are now vainly seeking employment were doubtless delighted when they read about that "industrial prosperity" which "surpassed our most rosy expectations."

American manufacturers, whose factories are idle by reason of a restricted market, and those whose business has been crippled by reason of the high tariff tax on raw materials, will read this speech with peculiar satisfaction. If the tariff is to be dependent upon a high tariff, why should any man favor a reduction of that tariff? It, after 11 years of surprising prosperity, brought about by the Dingley bill, business languishes, and labor suffers who not only receive no more "rosy expectations" by raising the tariff, but the end of that there may be a much-needed revival of business, and that labor may again find employment. The voters of America are not likely to be deceived as to the tariff question by the stock arguments of the opposition. The average voter understands that the tariff is a tax to be paid by the consumer, and the article taxed is not the government's property. He knows that it taxes the needs of government are unjust and oppressive, and that extravagance in government administration indicated in the mere purpose of creating a necessity for additional taxation is a profligacy. He is not slow to know that the tax power of the government is in such ways that a few beneficiaries in a community are leaving tribute upon the masses, is legalized robbery.

Manufacturers For Reform. Every legitimate business interest in the country is demanding a tariff reform.

The manufacturer who is not a monopolist is derided by the raw materials and wider markets for his products. The workingman understands that a restricted market means distress and enforced idleness. Under the shelter of this tariff wall trusts and combines have sprung up on every hand, and with exorbitant prices confront the consumer on every occasion when he seeks to buy the necessities of life. Under this system the cost of living so increased as to absorb the earnings of the laborer after the most rigid economy on his part and that of his family. The selfishness of 1907-08 in the large cities of the country was a reaction of a bad part of the "rosy expectations" of Republican statesmen. The farmer understands that while he has to buy everything in a protected market, where on nearly every purchase he is compelled to pay tribute to the trusts and tariff beneficiaries, he is compelled to sell his products in a free-trade market where he comes in competition with all the rest of the world.

The accident risks against swelling fortunes as menaces to the public welfare and as promoters of evils which eat at the very heart of society. As a result he has suggested an income tax and an inheritance tax, that their growth may be to some extent checked. The national convention of his party is silent upon the question of these reforms, while the possessors of most of these swollen fortunes, allied as they are with the dominant forces of the Republican party, are giving generous support to the Republican national ticket. The Democratic party, while favoring the reform measures recommended by the Republican national convention, has another remedy. It would by legislation in large degree cut out the stream of money which under the present system are flowing from every home in the land and emptying into the coffers of the trusts. It would by rigorous law enforcement strike down private monopolies which prey upon the people and protect the public against extortionate prices, whether by excessive charges or by overuse of stock and securities. It has no war to wage on capital. It has no quarrel with corporations honestly capitalized, which carry on a legitimate business according to law. It will draw the line between lawful business lawfully conducted and unlawful business, or business carried on in defiance of law and the rights of the public, protecting the one and protecting society from the other. It calls upon men and corporations lawfully engaged in legitimate business not to ally themselves with corporations engaged in lawless ventures, but to take a stand with the Democratic party in favor of such reforms as will purge the business world of lawlessness and legalized extortion to the end that honest capital and honest labor may go forward hand in hand in the development of the country, each yielding to each its just due in a spirit of fairness and all striving to the time when the door of opportunity shall be open to all who desire and deserve to enter.

Mr. Kern was followed by Thomas R. Marshall, Democratic candidate for governor, who made a short speech declaring that as a Democrat, if elected, he would adhere to the old-time principle that the "least possible government is the best government," and he pledged himself to carry out the principles of the national and state platforms when elected.

Mr. Bryan's Address. Then came the piece de resistance, the one thing for which the crowd had waited so patiently for some time. Bryan made his speech, but it was not the forensic treat that the people had anticipated, as the Commoner read his prepared remarks. Because of the importance of his subject, he followed the text from manuscript and this detracted somewhat from the effect, despite the fact that he occasionally interspersed his regular remarks with caustic comment on the splendid audience and beautiful acoustic properties of the Coliseum.

The program was completed by William J. Bryan, who delivered an address on "Trusts." His appearance was the signal for loud and vociferous applause, and his remarks were frequently greeted with prolonged cheering. He spoke in part as follows:

Nowhere does the Republican party show more indifference to real reform than in its treatment of the trust question. The Sherman anti-trust law was passed six years ago. It has a criminal clause which provides a penitentiary punishment for those who conspire together in restraint of trade. Ever since the enactment of the law, with the exception of four years, the Republican party has controlled the executive department of our government and during two years of the four it controlled the house of representatives. Most of the trusts have never been disturbed, and those that have been prosecuted have not had their business seriously interrupted. The president has done something toward the enforcement of the law, but not nearly enough, and the Republican leaders have thwarted him at every point.

Platforms Contrasted. Now let me contrast the two platforms with the Republican platform. Nowhere is the difference in the temper of the parties more noticeable than in the difference in the method of dealing with questions more manifest. Our platform says: "A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. We therefore favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal law against guilty trust magnates and officials and demand the enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States."

Let me be plain, candid statement of the party's position. There is no quibbling, no evasion, no ambiguity. A private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. It is bad in principle and bad in practice. No apology can be offered for it, and no people should endure it. Our party's position is entirely in harmony with the position of Jefferson. I have in discussing the trust question presented one of our remedies—namely, the removal of the tariff from imports which compete with trust-made goods. This we believe would greatly lessen the extortion practiced by the trusts and leave about the dissolution of many monopolistic combines. But we are not satisfied merely with the lessening of extortion or with the dissolution of some of the trusts. Because the private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable, the Democratic party favors its extermination. It pledges itself to the vigorous enforcement of the criminal law against trust magnates and officials. It is impossible for the Republican party to enforce the present criminal law against trust officials. These officials are intimately connected with the Republican party in the present campaign.

Outlines Remedies. The Democratic party does not content itself with a definition of the wrong or with a denunciation of it. It proceeds to outline remedies. The first is a law preventing a duplication of directors among competing corporations. No one can object to this remedy unless he is in sympathy with the trusts rather than with the people who are victimized by the trusts. The second remedy, as stated in the platform, is "to take out of the right to regulate as it will foreign corporations doing business within its limits make it necessary for a manufacturing trading corporation engaged in interstate commerce to take out a federal license before it shall be permitted to control as much as 25 per cent of the product in which it deals, the license to protect the public from watered stock and to prohibit the control by such corporation of more than 50 per cent of the total amount of any product consumed in the United States."

Let the issue be made plain, let the distinction be accurately drawn, let the respective positions of the parties be fully understood. The Democratic party does not oppose all corporations, on the contrary, it recognizes that the corporation can render an important service to the public. The Democratic party wants to employ every instrumentality that can be employed for the advancement of the common good, but the Democratic party draws the line at the private monopoly which declares that a private monopoly can not be justified on either economic or political grounds.

A PROPHETIC VISION COMES FROM GERMANY

Electricity To Lighten the Labor on the Farm.

CONSUL THOMPSON SENDS A MESSAGE

Power Plants in the Cities Which Usually Have Some Idle Current Might Sell It to the Farmers, Who Could Use It to the Best Advantage.

Washington, Aug. 24.—From Germany comes a prophetic vision of the future of the farm, with electricity to lighten the work of the farmer. Consul Thompson transmits to the department of commerce and labor an address delivered by Herr von Podbielski, former German minister of agriculture, in which the latter predicts the early utilization of the motor on the farm.

Podbielski thinks that power plants in the smaller cities, which generally remain more or less idle until current is required for lighting at night, would earn greater dividends by distributing their power to farmers, for then use during the day. Some of the appliances upon which the electric motor may be utilized are: the chain cutter, the corn cleaner, and the bruising mill. Still further utilization is possible in pulling the plow, running the reapers and threshing grain.

Because the wages of the day laborer are constantly increasing, Podbielski says that the initial cost to the farmer in machinery would be more than repaid in the cheapness of the work done, and the faithfulness of a mechanical helper that doesn't eat meals nor loaf while the current is on.

Some small German cities having power plants for lighting are considering the extension of their service to farming communities nearby, in line with the suggestion.

CAPTAIN HAINS IS NOT INSANE

Nor Is His Brother, Says Sheriff Harvey.

NEITHER OF THEM RAVES IN CELL

All Such Stories Due to Fertile Imaginations.

Both of the Hains Brothers Are Model Prisoners and All the Talk About the Captain Mowing Over His "Poor Wife" and Wanting To Go Back to the Army Post Is Pure and Unadulterated Rot.

New York, Aug. 25.—"Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., who killed William E. Annis, is as sane as any one," said Sheriff Harvey, of Queens county, today. "Stories that he is raving like a maniac in his cell are ridiculous untrue. He is precise in his jail life and an ideal prisoner."

"All the stories that have been printed saying that Captain Hains means for 'my poor wife' and raves to go back to his army post are absurd," continued the sheriff. "He had a slight attack of stomach trouble, but is now O. K. again. T. Jenkins Hains is as well and as composed as his brother."

Frank G. Wild, attorney for Mrs. Hains, declared today that she would not go on the stand to confess wrongdoing and thus save her husband from the electric chair.

"Mrs. Hains is innocent," Wild declared, "of any criminal relations with Annis. She will possibly take the stand, but if she does, so it is likely to be on a call by the prosecution. She will tell the simple truth and will shield no one."

When John F. McIntire, chief counsel for the Hains brothers, was told that Mrs. Hains might take the stand for the prosecution, he said: "Is that so? At Mrs. Hains is a competent legal witness for the state. I shall waive all objections I might have and let her take the stand."

McIntire claims to have certain letters written by Annis to Mrs. Hains. He says they will be one of the features which "will make the Hains trial one of the most sensational in the history of the courts of New York."

WANTS UNWRITTEN LAW ON STATUTES

That's the Recommendation of Texas Grand Jury.

Eastland, Texas, Aug. 25.—While urging mothers to give greater protection to their daughters by curtailing their liberties the grand jury here today openly recommended that the "unwritten law" should be placed on the statute books as a means of protecting the home, in a remarkable addenda to its report.

"If the law cannot be so amended as to visit punishment upon the despoilers, then let the avenger be free," reads the report. "Let the highest law be written on the statute books and let the gay deceivers now here rest in security."

This statement follows a recommendation that the liberties of young people, especially girls, be curtailed to a preventative of "heinous crimes." That an offer of marriage by the guilty party should not act as a preventative of punishment; that less corroboration of the offense be required, and that suitable punishment be visited upon a "despoiler."

CAMDEN TRUNK MYSTERY CLEAR

It Is Solved by the Police Baltimore.

BODY IS THAT OF SAMUEL ROSENBLUM

Killed and Packed in Trunk by His Son.

Such Is the Confession Made by Wife of the Dead Man When Sued and Her Daughter Are Sworn by the Police—The Killing Follows a Family Quarrel—Warfare for the Son Issued.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 24.—The Camden trunk mystery was solved today by the Baltimore police. Shortly before noon Mrs. Bon Rosenblum and her daughter, I. Rosenblum, sixteen, confessed Captain of Detectives Humphrey and Detectives Atkinson and Breen that the body found in the trunk of the Belle Mawr, near Camden, New Jersey, on August 16, was that of her husband, Samuel J. Rosenblum, Windber, Pennsylvania, and that was killed by her son, Alexander J. Rosenblum, at their home, Windber, Pennsylvania, on or about November 12 last. The woman said the cause of the murder was that her husband had beaten them.

Mrs. Rosenblum, who is nearly seven years old, and her daughter were taken into custody here today for nearly an hour. Mrs. Rosenblum and her daughter were "sweated." At first Mrs. Rosenblum said she knew nothing of her husband beyond the fact that he had disappeared from their home and store, Windber on November 12 last, after having a quarrel with herself, a her two children Eva and Alexander. Then Eva Rosenblum was closely questioned, and, becoming nervous broke down and told the detectives enough to make them still more closely question the mother. Finally, Mrs. Rosenblum also broke down and made a statement which was taken down by the headquarters stenographer.

On the night of the murder, Mrs. Rosenblum said, her husband quarreled with her and with her son, Alexander. She and her daughter said, went upstairs to their room. They heard loud words in the street below. In the morning when they came down stairs, her husband was not there.

They asked her son, Alexander Rosenblum, where his father was. He replied that he had "gone away." Later, Mrs. Rosenblum said, her son said to her:

"I have killed father because he quarreled with all of us and beat us and Eva."

Mrs. Rosenblum says that she did not know of her son concealing the body of his father in the trunk.

As yet no formal charge has been brought against them. The Pennsylvania authorities have sworn out a warrant for Alexander Rosenblum and are now searching for him.

IT'S ALWAYS BAD

The Best of Backs Are Bad When They Ache and Marion People Know It.

A bad back is always bad. Bad at night when bedtime comes. Just as bad in the morning. Every try Doan's Kidney Pills.

Know they cure backache—every kidney ill? If you don't, some Marion people do.

Read a case of it: Mrs. L. Childers of 113 Olney avenue, Marion, O., has twice testified the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills which she bought at Flocken's pharmacy.

In October 1899, when living at 130 south Main street, she said: "I do not hesitate in saying that Doan's Kidney Pills did me good. I had perpetual lameness in the back, suffered from headache and dizziness. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I immediately began using them. They removed the trouble and my back and kidneys have been all right ever since."

On July 25th, 1904, Mrs. Childers confirmed her previous testimony saying: "There is no doubt that Doan's Kidney Pills wonderfully invigorated my back and kidneys five years ago. I have never had such trouble as I described in my former testimony since using them. Something a slight recurrence takes place, but find that a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills never fails to bring the desired relief."

LITTLE LIFE CRASHED OUT UNDER STREET CAR

A Child Is Killed in West Marion Monday Afternoon.

MOTHER PROSTRATE OVER MANGLED BODY

Scams of Mrs. C. E. Jacobs, the Anguished Mother, Attracts Attention to Accident and Tender Hands Carry Mother and Babe into Home. Details of Deplorable Affair.

About 4:30 Monday afternoon, attracted by the horrible screams of a woman, G. F. Jennings, a paper-hanger, and Edward Schiller, a carpenter, who were working on the first house west of Davis street on Herman street, rushed out into the middle of the two streets to a point about twenty-five feet north of the junction of the two streets to find a woman lying over the prostrate and terribly mutilated body of a young child. A northbound street car in charge of Motorman "Budd" Parrott and Conductor William Dawson had run over Gerald, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jacobs. Death resulted while the body was being carried into the house.

Jennings and Schiller were seen by a Star representative a few minutes after the accident, and both stated that they did not see the accident, but rushed out as soon as they heard the screams of the mother. They carried her into her home. Her condition was critical for some time.

D. L. Brady, the coroner, was summoned and reached the scene in a few minutes. He made a hasty examination of the remains. He found that the child had suffered a severe contusion of the breast, abdomen, both eyes right shoulder, and many cuts about the head. The right leg above the knee was terribly mangled and was completely severed just below the knee. The left leg was fractured and badly mangled. The left arm was severed just above the wrist joint.

Coroner Brady with Dr. F. B. Sawyer attended Mrs. Jacobs. The coroner who is convalescing from a severe attack of pneumonia stated that he would hold the inquest in a couple of weeks or as soon as he was physically able to procure the necessary witnesses and information.

Motorman Parrott stated that he was going at the usual speed, and could not see the child until the little fellow jumped up in the east side of the road and started to run in front of the car. He was then he saw about six feet away and it was impossible to stop the car. Conductor Dawson stated that he did not see the child until the car was right upon it. Miss Stella Bell and two strangers who were returning from the ball game were the only occupants of the car. The strangers were hastening to make a train and refused to stop or give their names but ran at break-neck speed for the depot. Miss Bell stated that she "was looking straight ahead but could see nothing."

Neighbors who were about their respective yards and houses stated that they saw nothing.

Mr. Jacobs who is an employee in the Marion Steam Shovel shops, arrived on the scene in a few moments. People residing on the street say that children are in the habit of playing in the street.

The funeral was held at Upper Sandusky Wednesday morning. The remains were taken there Tuesday evening.

That's the trouble with all adulteration in clothes, or anything, the minute you admit that "a little doesn't hurt anything," you've opened the gate wide. John Shaffer Is in Custody in Philadelphia

JOHN H. CLARK IS ONE OF HIS VICTIMS

Shaffer Beats Lawyers by Retaining Them and Then Having Them Enforce Checks—Tries to Work the Same Attorney Twice and He Is Placed Under Arrest.

John Shaffer, the Columbus man under arrest at Philadelphia on a swindling charge, bounced Prosecuting Attorney John H. Clark out of five dollars about a year ago.

With one hand bandaged the fellow walked into the office of Marion county's prosecuting attorney. He asked Mr. Clark to bring suit for him against the Hocking Valley Railroad company for damages. After telling the lawyer all the details of the case he casually asked him to cash a check which apparently was in payment for services rendered by him to a railroad company. Mr. Clark looked him over pretty carefully and determined that he was all right. He endorsed the check and the fellow got the money at the store of Hughs & Cleary. That was the last seen of him in this part of the county.

Monday, he popped up in the Quaker City and called on a lawyer whom he had "worked" in a similar fashion before with the result that he was arrested. "I've worked the game so often and in so many cities that I forgot that I worked it on Poughkeepsie before," Shaffer said. "I've made lots of money with that trick."

Neighbors who were about their respective yards and houses stated that they saw nothing.

Mr. Jacobs who is an employee in the Marion Steam Shovel shops, arrived on the scene in a few moments. People residing on the street say that children are in the habit of playing in the street.

"DIRTY THIRTY" IS SCENE OF TROUBLE

Complaint Is Carried to Court of Justice Gompf

REV JOHN GILLEN MAKES STATEMENT

Mrs. Almira Reed Is Placed Under a Peace Bond of 150 Dollars and Her Neighbors Think They Can Get the Money by Making Her Violate Her Bond.

A deplorable situation exists among the people in that neighborhood of Toledo avenue popularly known as "Dirty Thirty," according to Rev. John W. Gillen, a superintendent minister Tuesday. Rev. Mr. Gillen accompanied by a resident of Toledo avenue named Reed, called on Justice C. E. Gompf and related a shocking story of neighborhood immorality and backward spits.

Trouble started last June when Mrs. Almira Reed, who is probably sixty years old was placed under a $50 peace bond on complaint of Mrs. Anna Young, a neighbor. The latter claimed that Mrs. Reed had threatened to kill her. Rev. Mr. Gillen who was the pastor of the Reed family for many years says he has investigated and finds that his former flock members are being subjected to all sorts of human torture.

"Since Mrs. Reed has been placed under a peace bond, the Youngs seem to think that if she commits any overt act they'll get the money," said the old minister, bearing his weight on an old-fashioned cane and trembling because of his advanced years. "Yes, they think that because she had to furnish $50 bond that they will get this money if she does anything to them," he repeated. "Mrs. Young has threatened to assault Mrs. Reed and Mr. Reed here has also been threatened by Mr. Young."

"I'm not afraid of them as old as I am, spoke up the other except when I work until midnight on Saturday then go home. It's hard to tell what may happen."

The justice directed them to inform Mrs. Reed to protect herself in the event Mrs. Young attempted to molest her. The grand jury will investigate.

A MISSOURI DOG TRAVELING BY RAIL

Selects His Own Trip and Makes It Every Day, Without Ever Missing a Train.

We were doing several towns in Missouri in what the Kansas Populists called cockatiks and ran across a dog that gives proof that some canines can reason or live a substitute for it that no naturalist has yet satisfactorily named. This dog is a traveler and he travels on his own account and has the Hepburn railway law beam to a standard. He pays no fare, carries no ticket, seems all freight trains and yet never fails to reach his destination. Every morning he rides from Weatherby to Maysville and return both in Missouri has never missed his train and seems even more delighted than an excursionist on his first trip to Cedar Point. When the southbound Rock Island train comes to a stop at Weatherby the dog takes his place on the front platform to the smoker, next to the baggage car. As complacent as though the train ran for his express benefit he rides to Maysville, twenty miles away leaves the train there and smiles or wags a greeting to the hangers-on about the station then kills time like real people waiting for the train north. He's a stranger at Maysville and makes no exploitation. Only the railway station interests him. When the Rock Island northbound blows its winning blast he becomes more interested than the important agent is in up and alert and before the train fairly stands still he is on board ready for the ride home. It is the front platform to the smoker again and he is happy in his location, never slitting unless a curious passenger gazes out the front door and tips a greeting on the glass. Then the dog looks up with a delightful-daw travel expression. The train is never too fast never rocks too violently. He rides because he likes it.

Pretty soon the whistle blows the air is applied and the train comes to a halt at Weatherby and home. You would think the canine traveler would leap to the platform with in ostentatious "Well I'm back" and other like dog talk but he doesn't. He quietly, leans down on the off-side steps around the rear coach and leisurely canteers down the platform and wags his tail modestly seeming to say "By George I nearly missed this train pull in. The hangers-on say he does it to fool his master who is the station-agent and the master could not be expected to approve this habit of riding without a ticket. Anyway it is a true story."

Why does he do it? Nobody knows. Who taught him? Nobody. The first day he mounted his train, just as he has done ever since, rode to Maysville, jumped off waited for the train back home mounted at when it came, and made his own journey by rail safely. May be dogs do not reason things out, but after seeing this kindly-eyed, cross-bred common dog, a cross between a collie and mere dog—well, this rail-roading dog was observed in Missouri and you will have to show me—J. Skates.

Mr. Male Is Now Attending National Physical Culture School and Will Complete His Studies Before Beginning His Work at the Local Y. M. C. A. Building.

H. L. Male has been selected as the new physical director of the Y. M. C. A. building to succeed C. M. Douthitt who recently tendered his resignation. Mr. Male is now at the National Physical Culture Institute at Silver Bay. He has attended this institute three years and will graduate from the school before coming here to assume his duties. For the past three years he has been the assistant physical director of the Twenty-Third Street branch in New York and previous to this was physical director in Hudson, New York.

Mr. Male will assume his duties with the local association September 7. He is but twenty-four years old and comes here highly recommended. Mr. Male was recommended to the directors of the local association by Dr. George Fisher of New York who will be remembered here as having delivered the address at the annual gymnasium banquet a year ago. He is a budding young man and will make an excellent successor to Mr. Douthitt, who without a doubt has been the best man in his line that has ever been connected with the association here.

WOODPECKERS AND TELEPHONE POLES

The Birds Do Great Damage in Certain Sections

FIFTY PER CENT OF ALL POLES RIDDLED

Reports Received from Men Working Along Telegraph and Telephone Lines in the South and Southwest in Some Cases the Poles Are Damaged to the Point of Being Dangerous for Lumbermen to Climb.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Woodpeckers are destroying telephone and telegraph poles by the wholesale in the South and Southwest, particularly in Texas, Arizona and California, says a bureau bulletin issued by the forest service. In some places fifty per cent of all the poles along the right-of-way have been riddled.

A telegraph official who has recently returned from an inspection through the west reported having seen twenty-five telephone poles with two or three hundred holes drilled clear through them. Some were three or four inches in diameter.

An officer of the Illinois Central railroad found that out of 265 white oak telephone poles along the right-of-way near Covington, Tennessee, 110 had been bored.

In some cases destruction of the pole takes only a few months and the weakened condition makes it dangerous for a line man to climb the stick.

The woodpecker's object in drilling the holes is uncertain. One telephone man said that the humming of the wires was mistaken by the birds for insects excavating beneath the surface of the wood and that they drilled the poles in quest of these imaginary insects. It is very probable however, says the forest service, expert that the holes are excavated for storage purposes. The woodpecker is a provident bird. At the proper season it stores up a supply of acorns and other foods for future consumption. In the summer these holes are often found stored with acorns.

Many methods for preventing the damage have been suggested, but probably the most successful is said to be preservation with creosote. A line of creosoted poles opposite the one near Covington, was examined and not a single hole was found.

A NEARING REVOLUTION.

Portugal is an illeth Reform has failed except to what the appetite for more.

The promise of the early months of King Manuel's reign, following the assassination of King Carlos and the crown prince and the flight of the prince minister across the border has not been fulfilled. The country for a time seemed to be hunched by the shock of the regime. It was thankful to accept the least betterment as long as the sounds of the murderers' rifles were echoing through the land.

In spite of the efforts of the censor to suppress the news, dispatches have recently come out of Portugal indicating that the revolution is drawing nearer daily. A large trade has sprung up in smuggled arms and ammunition. The arrest of men believed to be concerned in the importation has apparently had no effect in lessening the distribution of guns and cartridges among the discontented. An English correspondent writes that all the movement lacks a leader of sufficient genius. It will be real revolution then and not theories.

Though assassination has never in excess and bomb throwing is the sort usually of cowards the Portuguese rebels have a command of a large share of American sympathy. They have been sad, unsung heroes. Carlos looted his country for money with which to plunder his dispositions. He repaid it with a cheap show of democracy and the elevation of a horde of greedy officials. The annual revenue for a decade has been expended by the expatriates. Taxes have been levied to the point of causing emigration of turning cultivated fields into waste places, and of stifling enterprise. An inquisitorial police system has been developed since the accession of the young Manuel yet without crushing the agitation for amelioration of the oppressions.

Annual grants to the royal family, a large constabulary and in ruin out of proportion to the size of the country which eat up great shares of the revenue officialdom as voracious as ravens all these seem a large burden for Portugal with an area smaller than that of the state of Ohio to bear. The country has a population less than a million more than that of this commonwealth. Not merely misgovernment but overgovernment have heaped woes upon a people noted for their good nature and their industry.

The purging of the ill of Portugal is in incapable hands. The signs point to a change of physicians through means most deplorable but which in famous instances have proved effective.—Toledo Blade.

AN EXILE IN GREATNESS SCHOOL.

By William T. Ellis.

"The rich man's son does not have a fair chance in these days," recently declared Mr. J. Campbell White, who was pointing out that it takes discipline in burden-bearing, self-control and responsibility to bring a youth to manhood's full measure. Many a great man has passed the school of hardship as the result of his success. Soft times make soft characters. There is no smooth road to greatness. Hard experiences are needed to produce hardy spirits.

The best thing that can befall a person who looks forward to any sort of achievement is a bitter succession of hard times. Let him have, as David, a few active, powerful enemies, and a great trial that will do down to the uttermost depths of his soul. Give him occasion to test the primal verities; and to have to rely upon his own wisdom and courage and persistence for safety. The only justification for any sort of bazing in college is this true principle, that hardship and oppression have an educational value. For after all, what is the ultimate use of education except to help a person find his own soul.

Songs out of Sorrows.

Thus David became a king. In the school of exile and persecution he learned how to reign. It was with a confident step and even eye that he eventually came to his coronation; he learned that confident step scaling the obstacles of the wilderness, and that even eye by looking into the everpresent face of danger. The seven years of pursuit by Saul, during which David "ate bitterness," as the Chinese say, were the years that proved the worth of Jesse's son.

More than that, out of those seven years were born many of the most of the immortal Psalms of David, which have meant more to the human race than the rise or fall of a myriad kings. The world would be but slightly interested in David as a king were it not for his "songs in the night." Out of the depths of his personal sorrows he uttered the sentiments of the universal heart. The Psalms are the most contemporaneous of literature, because they express, better than any other form of words, what men and women are feeling today.

Comfort and complacency do not heed poetry; it is commonly said that the prosperity of this generation is responsible for its lack of great poets, as well as for its multitude of petty rhymesters. The poet must "learn in suffering what he teaches in song." David sounded the depths of loneliness, despair and sin, and he could sound the notes which have vibrated as bugle calls through the nations.

A Young Man's Testing.

A fair test of anybody's calibre is whether he takes what is coming to him without whimpering. How does he face hard times? Can he even meet undeserved enmity and punishment in high-souled ferocity? David had deserved only honor from Saul and Israel; instead, he was treated with ignominy and ingratitude. Things did not turn out according to his storybook fashion—which is one of the shattering discoveries made by most young men who enter upon a wide range of activities. There was danger that David's faith in the verities, and in the old-fashioned religion of his country mother and father, would be shaken. He was thrown among evil companions who scoffed at the pious teachings unsophisticated home folk.

But David kept the faith. He got the best out of his trials, and not the worst. Troubles are always charlottes; it is with us to choose whether we shall ride in them or be crushed by them. In the first place, David decided to play fair. He would not match meanness with meanness, disloyalty with disloyalty, ingratitude with ingratitude. Like many a noble business man of today, in a world full of trickery and deception, he determined to do the right thing, or go under in the attempt.

Even for the sake of his own character, he could not afford to do a mean deed. Saul's ingratitude he met with magnanimity. Twice he spared the monarch's life, when he had him absolutely in his power; for David had kept his respect for the Lord's anointed. Shrewd David must also have perceived, in the example of Saul's degeneracy, how great a price one must pay for a mean act. While Saul yielded to manhood and instant remorse, or pleaded pitifully that everybody was against him, or wept and reproached himself at the knowledge of David's mercy, or committed unwarranted murder upon the priests, David was learning that it only pays to be big and brave and daring.

Another mistake David avoided was the common one of quitting work and taking to complaining because things were not going well with him. Many a person forsakes the church because some member thereof has hurt his feelings. David had been sorely injured by the nation's highest representatives; yet he remained loyal and patriotic. When Saul was threatened by the Philistines, he hastened to its rescue, and even the crass ingratitude of the inhabitants

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON FOR AUGUST 30

Is, "David Spares Saul's Life."

I Sam. 26.

David did not run a him soon.

The Fugitive in the Caves.

David, from his time and wife and office with his father's family, also persecuted on his account. David had to become a fugitive and an outlaw, a dweller in caves and a hider in mountain fastnesses. Even so he gathered about him six hundred fighting men who like himself had severed the ties that bound them to society. These he welded into a compact fighting force, and used them for the execution of life and property. This company of David's, during his exile, although resembling a band of robbers, was really a band of patriots. When the outlaw becomes a patriot is not easily determined. David in the fastnesses seems to have been more of a patriot and a defender of the nation than Saul in the palace. Similarly, the Young Turk party, just now risen to power, is being more patriotic than Sultan Abdul Hamid. Likewise the "Young China" party of revolutionists is more zealous for China's welfare than most of the mandarins in Peking. Although for a time beyond the pale of official favor, David held fast to his love for Israel, to his love for his family and friends, as witness the often interview with Jonathan in the woods, and to his love for behavior in which his trust could not be shaken. And so long as these great anchors of life hold fast, the matters of life hold fast, the matters of life hold fast, the matters of life hold fast.

One More Grand Rally.

Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R., is trying very hard to make one more grand rally at Toledo, where the national encampment is to be held September 1. Many of the veterans know full well that their time is growing short and they must make the best of what is left. This will probably be the last time the encampment will be held in Ohio. The distance is short and the fare is low, and it is expected that all will make arrangements to join in one more grand rally. The Marion delegation will have a good march band with it and an enjoyable time is expected. Malcolm Die, John Craxley or Major S. N. Tins can be seen for particulars.

All the veterans of the county are expected to join in the trip.

William Johnson Entices Two Little Girls into an Alley After Taking Liberties with Them—Mayor Fears Possibility of Mob Violence and Gets Wretch Out of Town.

What would probably have terminated in a fendish crime was prevented Saturday evening by Philip Ketter, the local baseball player. As Ketter and his wife were enroute home on East Church street, about 8 o'clock Ketter noticed a man with two little girls in the alley leading north from Church street between Main and State. Believing that the man had the girls in the alley for no good purpose, he called to them and on learning that the fellow was not the father of either he ordered the girls home. The man followed the girls out of the alley, and went to Ketter's barber shop. Ketter watched the fellow and after seeing where he went made a hurried trip to the police station and informed Captain Bond of the matter. Captain Bond detailed Officer Hostetter on the case and the latter officer went to the barber shop and kept watch. The man wanted was in the barber chair at the time. After he left the chair he was placed under arrest. The news had spread like wildfire and when the officer took the man in charge, a large crowd had congregated in front of the shop and it was feared that an attempt would be made to lynch the fellow.

After being taken to the station the man gave his name as William Johnson. For the past week he had been employed at Huley's blacksmith shop, located where he was seen with the girls. It is the supposition that he was trying to get the girls into the shop.

One of the girls was Edna Mitchell, aged eleven years daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Mitchell, who live about their second-hand store on South Main street and the other was Esther Bauser, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bauser.

At the time the man was seen with the children he was leading the Bausers and against her wishes. The girls were taken to the mayor's office and identified Johnson as the man who coaxed them into the alley. Mitchell was with his daughter at the time and became so enraged in the court room when the girl pointed out the man that he made an assault on Johnson but was pulled away by the officers present.

To prevent violence the mayor ordered the man locked up, and he was given a hearing Monday morning. The Mitchell girl testified that Johnson had given them a nickel to go with him and that he had put his hand under their clothing earlier in the evening. They did not want to incriminate him, but he led the Bauser girl by the arm and her companion followed.

Johnson had no attorney when he argued to answer to a charge of assault, which was filed against him by Captain Bond. Johnson refused to cross examine the girl at the hearing and having waived a jury trial was found guilty of the charge against him. He gave no reason why sentence should not be passed, and was fined $200 and the costs amounting to $13.05, and sentenced to six months in the workhouse.

The mayor fearing that the man might be violently dealt with by the enraged people ordered Captain Bond to take him to the workhouse Monday afternoon. The sentence will keep Johnson in the workhouse for over eighteen months. Johnson is a tramp blacksmith and has worked in the city several times during the past few years.

The Fair Board Seeks To Make the Coming Meeting Such as Will Draw a Record-Breaking Crowd—An Inquiry as to the Cost of Some of the Features Suggested.

With John L. Sullivan and several shapely maidens wearing the director gown as attractions for the Marion county fair, Secretary James A. Knapp of the Marion County Agricultural society thinks that, in point of attendance, the people's big show for 1908 will eclipse any ever given.

Since the announcement that John L. Sullivan wanted to appear on exhibition here to put up his hands, the secretary of the society has received many inquiries with regard to the former great pugilist's presence. The directors of the society were to have met last week, but the meeting was postponed. If the old prize fighter's managers do not want too much for the privilege of showing him the probabilities are that the directors will have him come here. John L. puts up a little sparring match with Jake Kilham who gave him the hardest battle he ever had for the championship many years ago.

If the director's board is good enough for the state fair, I guess it is good enough for us, said Secretary Knapp, Saturday. "But we don't want the gown alone, we want the girl that goes with it—if she don't come too high in price."

Secretary Knapp is authority for the statement that an effort will be made to procure for the Marion county fair the New York girls who will exhibit their persons at the Columbus state fair.

QUARTERS ARE LEASED FOR ELECTION PURPOSES

Board of Elections Holds Meeting Thursday, August 20.

REGISTRARS TO BE APPOINTED SOON

The Board Finds It Has a Very Big Job Ahead of It in Preparing for the Holding of the National, State and County Elections—Will Meet Every Week in Future.

The Marion county board of elections has leased quarters in the old library rooms over the Marion national bank and will meet there until after the fall election. At a meeting of the board Thursday night a list of the registrars recommended by the Republican and Democratic committees was received. The registrars will be appointed soon.

The board has a big job ahead of it for the national state and county elections will all be held at the same time. In fact it is said more work will be connected with the position of deputy state supervisors of elections for Marion county than ever before.

A total of about 12,000 ballots will have to be printed for the use of the voters according to law. Two ballots must be printed for the use of each and every voter.

Four years ago there were six tickets in the held for nation's state and district elections. The probabilities are that there will be seven tickets in the held this time, with William Randolph Hearst's Independence party striving for recognition.

When the voter is handed his ballot this fall he too will have a job on his hands. If men vote in this county as they have been doing in the past few years it will take much longer to vote than ever before.

Clerk S. H. DeLong, of the board of election, may have to call for an assistant to do clerical work. The board will have to consider matters pertaining to the election and after the election comes the official count. To begin with this fall every person voting must register, this feature being imperative under the law.

In addition to getting the big blanket ticket ready, the board must appoint a complete set of clerks and registration officials for the city. To accomplish all their work it will be necessary for the deputy state supervisors of elections to meet once a week.

THE CLOSING SESSION OF FINE INSTITUTE

Some Business Given Attention by the Teachers.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR COMING YEAR

Addresses Are Delivered by C. H. Albert and M. A. O'Shea on Topics of Great Value and Interest to the Teachers—A Review of the Talks Given.

The first session of the Marion County teachers institute was opened Friday afternoon with a song. C. H. Albert talked for a few minutes on the value of manual training in any school. Forget your race prejudice if you have any, and consider the school of Booker T. Washington. Then ask if hand training is not worth while. Using the word of the A. T. C. educator he said, "The hand trains the mind and the mind trains the hand."

As a farewell message to his listeners the speaker dwelt then on the one central idea of school going. Every one whether in school room, business or shop is going to school and learning lessons. And what is the sum and substance of all school going? Nothing more or less than obedience. What is obedience but love of freedom? And freedom is love of law. The person who has the largest freedom is the one who loves law. What we love we follow. Therefore teachers as adults, know that children should be taught to love the higher things in life. You can't reform a boy or girl by telling them how bad they are. If you want to be great in life hit up some one fallen and get them to love law. What you follow is your character. Remember the relation of spirit, mind and body to each other and lastly the need of God's help in each day's work. Closing he told of the great doctor Kellogg, of Battle Creek who never began any operation or duty without bowing his head for help.

The applause which followed Mr. Albert's talk told as well as possible the high esteem in which the teachers hold him as a man and teacher.

After a short intermission Master Willard Osborne gave a violin solo accompanied on the piano by his mother. The following officers were then elected:

President: E. R. Jones, vice president: John Fields, secretary: Alice Donbaugh, member executive committee for term of three years: R. B. Bell.

Certificates of attendance were then given out and M. V. O'Shea gave his last talk his topic being "Purpose of Education." "Our great purpose ought to be to teach things best fitted to life. Telling of the influences of pleasure and pains on the individual man physically and morally he said, "To increase pleasure and diminish pain were the purposes of life. The individual has best lived who has had the most pleasure. Education is to increase pleasure and diminish pain. Every individual lives in relation to every other individual. This explains the right of duty. If we lived on the world alone, there would be little need for duty. Teachers must not forget the esthetic in education." He then enlarged upon the great sources of pain or pleasure. "First, the ability to live harmoniously in relation to people and environment. Second, understanding of people and nature with no fear for superstitions and things unknown. Third, to add to the student's life ability to put into it the things he enjoys. Lastly, ability to pull the oar, that is to say, earn a living. He lives best who lives in best relation to his fellow man."

Closing Mr. O'Shea congratulated the teachers upon their interest and attention.

MRS. SAIDE E. AMES SUES FOR A DIVORCE

Files Petition in Common Pleas Court August 21.

MARION AMES IS DEFENDANT IN CASE

Plaintiff Charges Habitual Drunkenness for Three Years and Failure to Provide—She Asks That Defendant Be Barred from Share in Her Estate—Court Notes.

Alleging three years' habitual drunkenness, Saide E. Ames, through her attorneys, Copeland & Barrim, brought suit for divorce in the common pleas court, Friday, August 21, against Marion Ames. She avers that since their marriage in 1900, the defendant has never provided her with any clothing, except two calico dresses and a few pairs of shoes. By her own labor she was often compelled to purchase the necessities of life. October 16, 1907, the plaintiff alleges that she was compelled to leave him in order to support herself. She asks that he be barred from all dower and other interest in her estate, and that she be awarded a decree of divorce, alimony and restoration to her maiden name of Whipples.

In the suit of the Sulpho Magnie Springs Sanatorium company against the Assurance company of America and others, William H. Hinkley through his attorneys, Crissinger & Guthrie, has filed a second amended answer and cross-petition, in which he sets up that he properly notified the company of the fire which destroyed the sanatorium at Prospect. He claims that the company still owes him $2,000 and asks judgment for that amount.

In the divorce suit of Anna Walter against John G. Walter, the defendant, through his attorneys, Mouser & Quigley, Monday morning, filed an answer and cross-petition in the common pleas court. He denies that he has been cruel to the plaintiff in any way, and that he has provided her and their children abundantly since their marriage. He declares her allegations with regard to him being a gambler as false.

The defendant avers that the plaintiff has been guilty of gross neglect of duty and cruelty. He says she is a poor housekeeper, and frequently left home without saying where she was going and leaving the children alone. Frequently, he asserts the plaintiff used profanity and abusive language in the presence of the children, whom, he says, she punished in a cruel and unmotherly manner. He asks for a divorce and the custody of their children.

Addie Moore filed a petition in the common pleas court, Monday, through Attorneys Mouser & Quigley, asking a divorce from Thomas J. Moore, whom she charges with three years' wilful absence. They were married May 30, 1904.

Clara F. Rengert was awarded a decree of divorce and $2,000 alimony from William F. Rengert, a farmer, by Judge B. G. Young, Monday. The plaintiff instituted suit for divorce October 23, 1907, charging the defendant with cruelty and drunkenness. The case was heard last March and was hotly contested by the defendant. The Rengerts were married June 2, 1898. In addition to the decree of divorce and alimony, the plaintiff is given custody of their child.

The court ordered the defendant to pay $250 of the alimony at once and the remainder at the rate of $20 a month at the first of each month. The plaintiff is barred from all dower in the defendant's estate.

A motion for a new trial in the suit of Guy Miller against Corney Tannehill was overruled by Judge B. G. Young, Monday morning. This is a suit in which a jury in the common pleas court several months ago awarded the plaintiff $47.37 for twenty cases of tomatoes.

The suit of Harry E. Carpenter against Lenox Rober to collect fees on a contract has been settled out of court.

A temporary injunction restraining County Treasurer W. C. Worthing and County Auditor Charles L. Allen from collecting taxes on the personal property of the late Josephus Goodnow in this county was made permanent by Judge B. G. Young in the common pleas court, Tuesday.

As Ohio administrator of the Goodnow estate William H. Schaffner filed a petition in the common pleas court, several months ago asking that the county officials be temporarily restrained from collecting over $8,000 on the assets of the Goodnow personal property, consisting of notes, mortgages etc., which the plaintiff claimed had been left here temporarily for collection. The notes, etc., amounted to nearly $300,000.

Judgment for costs is assessed against the defendants, County Treasurer Worthing and County Auditor Allen, and an appeal bond is fixed at $250.

Charging her husband, James Brewer, with extreme cruelty, Nellie Brewer, through her attorneys, Jacob by & Donithen, brought suit for divorce in the common pleas court, Monday afternoon. She claims that he cursed her and abused her, frequently accusing her of immorality, and not speaking to her for days at a time. Sometimes, the plaintiff avers, he would leave home without telling her where he was going and be gone for days. April 13, last, he took his clothing and went to Upper Sandusky, she says.

The plaintiff asks for a divorce, custody of their nine-year-old child and that the defendant be barred from any dower interest in her estate.

The First National bank of Iowa City Iowa, through Attorney Jacoby & Donithen, brought suit in the common pleas court, Tuesday, against Louis E. Schoenberger and Virgil W. Bowen, doing business as Bowen & Schoenberger, to obtain judgment for $491. This is a suit on a note.

In the suit of the Marion Savings Bank company against the Ohio Milling & Elevator company, Judge B. G. Young, Tuesday, authorized the receiver to make a settlement with the Marion Baseball company for sand at a price of $36.

In the suit of George E. Turner against James C. Tobias, an action for money only, Judge Young has overruled a motion for a rehearing.

While Harry Gooding was loading straw, in the alley north of the railroad between Main and Prospect streets, Monday afternoon, the team hitched to the wagon on which he was loading took fright at a goat in the alley and ran away. The horses made a wild rush down the alley, just missing a number of rigs. It crossed George street and ended the run by going into the porch at the home of J. A. Coleman. The porch was badly broken, while the tongue of the wagon penetrated the weatherboarding of the house close to the door. One of the horses was badly injured and the wagon slightly damaged.

MARTEL WOMAN WANTS CONSTABLE ARRESTED

Accuses Him of Badly Beating Her Young Son.

Justice Demands Security for Costs.

Mrs. John Burton Then Seeks Prosecutor John H. Clark, Who Holds That, If Facts Are as Stated, Constable Laipley Will Be Investigated by the Grand Jury.

Claiming that Constable A. Laipley, of Martel, had beaten her nine-year-old son until he was black and blue with a buggy spoke, Mrs. John Burton came to Marion to file an affidavit against the officer, Monday morning. She appeared in the office of Justice C. E. Gompf and related her story. That official refused to permit an affidavit to be filed unless she secured $100 costs. She had previously gone to Justice M. H. Clenden township and he sent her to Marion.

Later Mrs. Burton consulted prosecuting Attorney John H. Clark, who informed her that if what she said was true Constable Laipley could be arrested. Laipley is one of a number whose names were drawn to serve on the September grand jury. In the event she is prosecuted the prosecuting attorney will withdraw his name.

By long disbursements, a reporter for the Star learned that the trouble wherein the constable is alleged to have beaten the Burton boy with a buggy spoke occurred last Tuesday. The Burton lad and several companions, including the son of Laipley, were teasing horse-cage boys and a dog, and the Burton boy threw a cobble at a dog. Laipley had the cobble hit in the chest. Laipley's buddy, the Constable Laipley's buddy, the officer of the court, out of his blacksmith shop, it is claimed, and tried to hit the boy with a horse. Several of the villagers called at the Burton home and even had his way. They advised the parents to prosecute the constable.

ONE BOY SENT TO LANCASTER HOME

He's a "Bad" Man and Carries a Great Big Gun.

THREE OTHER LADS LECTURED BY COURT

The Quartet Is Taken Before Judge Foster of the Juvenile Court for Stealing Coal—Martin Jordan Gets a Fine for Inciting the Boys to Steal.

The quartet of fifteen-year-old boys arrested for the theft of coal which they disposed of to Martin Jordan, a watchman for the Pennsylvania at the Silver street crossing, had a hearing in the probate court, Monday morning. The boys were turned over to the juvenile judge by Justice C. E. Gompf.

Willis Wick, who appeared to be the leader, was sentenced to the Boys' Industrial Home at Lancaster. This lad, when arrested, carried a gun, and defied the Erie detectives to arrest him. He "peached" on his companions, who, in turn, told about selling the coal to the aged crossing watchman Omer Stoll, Virgil Altenberger and Lewis Speidel, were given a severe lecture and released. They were admonished that if they were again brought before the juvenile court they would also be sent to the home.

Martin Jordan, who was fined in the court of Justice Gompf for receiving stolen coal from the boys, was arrested by Juvenile Officer S. N. Tins, Monday morning, on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of the boys. The testimony at the hearing showed that Jordan had not only induced the boys to steal the coal, but, after learning when a new car was "set out" on the Erie Y, would inform them when to go to get it. He paid the boys a dollar for every eight loads that they brought him. Each load contained about 400 pounds.

Judge Foster fined Jordan $15 and costs. In the court of Justice Gompf he had already paid a fine of $25 and costs for receiving stolen coal.

John A. Huber has been appointed guardian of Albert M. Davis, an imbecile, in the probate court.

An application to probate the will of Wilson Peters was filed in the probate court, Monday morning. The hearing is set for August 29.

Bert Arthur, residing on Davis street, reported to the police, Sunday evening, that two fellows who had boarded with him had jumped the city or were prepared to leave without paying their bill. Officer Crabb kept watch at the station, and apprehended the two fellows who had already purchased tickets for Youngstown. They paid their bill and were released as Arthur did not wish to prosecute them.

Isaac Mason, residing four miles north of the city, reported to the police Monday morning that about twenty-five chickens had been stolen from his coop Sunday night. The police are investigating the loss of the fowls but no clue has been found to the guilty parties.

Charles C. P. Ruth, Sr., aged seventy-four years and seven months, a prominent Richland township farmer, died of heart failure and complications at his home near Beach, Monday morning at 2 o'clock. He had been in feeble health for many months. His death was not unexpected.

Born in 1834 in Germany, Mr. Ruth came to the United States when a young man, settling in Marion county in 1858. April 18, 1858, he was married to Miss Caroline Stouffer, who died of apoplexy a little over a year ago. Ten children survive. They are Mrs. William Partridge, Mrs. Jacob Schrote, Mrs. Robert Nelding and Miss Elizabeth Ruth, of this county; Mrs. Frederick Gompf, of Morrow county; Charles C. P. Ruth, Jr., John G. Ruth, Christin Ruth, Moses Ruth and William Ruth, of this county.

Mr. Ruth had followed the occupation of farming all his life. He was highly respected by all who knew him because of his sterling character.

Short funeral services were held at the home Wednesday afternoon at 12 o'clock, followed by services at the 7th church, of which the deceased was a member, at 1 o'clock.

Interment was made in the cemetery at the church.

Shall I Buy a Cream Separator?

WILL IT PAY ME IF I DO?

Butter is too valuable a product to feed to calves or pigs. Originally the calf got all the cream.

When the milk was set on the cellar shelf, the calf got half the cream and the other half was made into butter.

By setting the milk in spring water, the calf gets one-third the cream and two-thirds goes to butter.

The patent creamer, with ice, gets three-fourths of the cream for butter and one-fourth goes to the calf, in the skim-milk.

The Sharpless Tubular Separator gets all the cream for butter making, and the calf can be fed on perfectly skimmed milk.

THE SHARPLESS CREAM SEPARATOR is absolutely a big money maker, because it prevents waste of cream—and in a 10 cow dairy, you might sell enough cows to pay for a separator, and the cows remaining will make you far more money than when you had the whole herd, and no separator.

More Sharpless' in Marion County than any other---and we offer to Send Them Out On Trial.

DAM BREAKS; CITY FLOODED

Residents of Augusta Take to Upper Floors.

FLOOD IS RESULT OF HEAVY RAINS

Three Lives Known To Have Been Lost.

The Property Loss Will Reach Half a Million Dollars—Fire Adds to the Work of Ruin, a Large Warehouse and Grocery Being Destroyed—Telegraphic Communication With City Cut Off.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 27.—By the breaking of the big dam six miles above Augusta, the streets of the city are covered by the six to 12 feet of water, which is gradually rising.

The dam was used to divert the water from the Savannah river into the canal, and was overtaken by the heavy rains in the Carolinas and Georgia.

The big bridge across the Savannah river went down in the rush of the water, and the dam at the locks seven miles above the city collapsed, adding to the flood.

Three deaths are reported, two white persons and a negro, but no names are obtainable, as the only means of communication is by boat.

The swift, but not fast enough, more than carry away debris, tree boxes, store boxes and loose signs.

Despite the fact that the city was warned that there was danger of the dam breaking, there will be considerable loss in business houses of all kinds. Estimates place the financial loss close to $500,000.

There were several fires reported, but as the fires are in outlying districts the extent of the damage cannot be learned. It is said the Nixon & Danforth cotton warehouse was destroyed by fire, together with the Nixon wholesale grocery warehouse. A fire was also reported in the Georgia railway shops.

Despite the fact that the water stands six feet deep in the residence district of the city and is deeper in other portions, there has been no indication that people are suffering beyond being marooned in the upper stories of their dwellings.

Storm Claims Two.

New York, Aug. 27.—A terrible downpour of rain, lasting more than 24 hours and attended by the coldest August weather New York has experienced for 23 years, was responsible for two deaths and great property damage. More than three inches of rain fell and the thermometer registered as low as 56 degrees. The gale tore up trees and leveled field crops in the vicinity of New York. Those who met death were John Lynch, who drowned in a sewer, and an unidentified cripple, who perished from exposure in an East Side hallway. Several buildings in course of construction collapsed when their foundations became inundated. At Fire Island the Surf hotel sank several inches and part of the building fell. Miss Oakley, daughter of the proprietor, was injured by falling plaster.

Hundreds of homeless men and women applied for shelter at the municipal lodging house, driven by the storm to seek some sort of cover, and finally the accommodations at the city institution were so overcrowded that many of the men had to be given quarters in the morgue. Never in the history of the municipal lodging house have so many applications for a night's shelter been received during the month of August.

SUFFERING OF CLAMORMANIA

One of the Strangest Forms of Insanity Ever Known.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25.—Following an attempt at suicide in which he swallowed two ounces of iodine, Robert Caulfield, a boiler-maker, is dying today at the East St. Louis county hospital. Caulfield is believed to be suffering from one of the strangest forms of insanity the physicians have ever encountered. Clamormania, a passion for noise, is the name of his ailment.

As a boiler-maker, he became so accustomed to the terrible clashing and clang of steel and iron that alienists say he cannot live without the racket. He lost his job recently and twice was picked up unconscious near a railroad crossing where he had gone to hear a noise.

The last time he was taken to St. Mary's hospital. The quiet there drove him into a frenzy and a policeman was called in to remove the clamormaniac to Belleville county farm. On the suburban train Caulfield became wild, broke his hand-ruffs and gave the officers a terrible fight. He was finally landed in jail at Belleville but swallowed the iodine two minutes after reaching the cell.

SHE EXPECTS TO RAKE UP MILLIONS

Colorado Woman Takes a Fancy to City of Brotherly Love.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Sam Fitzpatrick of Colorado Springs, Colorado, is in this city armed with a bundle of legal papers with which she intends to prove her ownership of the ground on which the city hall now stands, as well as ninety other acres of land in the center of the city, valued all told at $120,000,000. She also expects to land a fortune of $20,000,000 which she claims is tied up in local banks, and 500 acres of valuable coal lands in central Pennsylvania.

The claim of Mrs. Fitzpatrick and her cohorts is that Colonel Baker obtained the original property rights to the land on which the city hall and several big office buildings are erected.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Wade Ellis, now attorney general of Ohio, has been tendered by the president and has accepted the position of assistant to the attorney general, recently held by Milton D. Purdy. Mr. Ellis will assume the duties of his new position as soon as the business of his present office will permit, which will require his attention for some weeks.

Xenia, O., Aug. 27.—By clinging to the cowcatcher of the engine of a Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton freight, onto which he was tossed when the train struck the wagon in which he was riding, J. Walter Shigley, rural mail carrier, saved his life.

SULTAN PLACED ON PROBATION

France To Keep Eye on the New Sultan.

MULAI HAFID TO BE GIVEN TRIAL

He Must Demonstrate That He Has Ability.

Must Show That He Is Able To Maintain Order Throughout the Empire and Guarantee Protection to Foreigners Before European Powers Will Recognize His Authority—Deposed Ruler Active.

Paris, Aug. 26.—While no official information has been given out, it is understood that France and Spain will take no immediate steps to recognize Mulai Hafid, who is now recognized as the sultan throughout the empire of Morocco.

By his victory and his proclamation as sultan at Tangier Mulai Hafid is evidently master of the situation. However, to continue as sultan de facto, he must levy taxes; to levy taxes he must maintain an army with which to impress and hold the fickle tribesmen, and to maintain an army he must have money. Money is a paramount necessity; gold is the goal around which the entire Moroccan problem revolves. If gold Hafid must look to Europe; without it he can not hope to endure. It would be tactless and ruinous for the powers instantly to throw themselves at the feet of Mulai Hafid and hail him as the new ruler of Morocco. He must be shown that the powers are necessary to him and not that he is necessary to the powers.

When France and Spain agree that the time for action has arrived, the signatories to the Algeiras act will be invited again to study the situation, and Mulai Hafid probably will be recognized. Hafid must promise much—to subscribe to the Algeiras act, to bring about the pacification of the country, to protect Europeans and to maintain a friendly attitude toward the needed civilization of Morocco. But above all, he must for the moment be allowed to "cool off," which will give time for the situation to become more tranquil.

New Ruler Issues Statement.

London, Aug. 26.—The Tangier correspondent of the Times says that Mulai Hafid authorizes the statement that he will abide by the Algeiras act and will accept responsibility for the Moroccan foreign board's debts, but will demand investigation of the private debts of Abd-El-Aziz before agreeing to pay them.

Deposed Sultan Is Active.

Paris, Aug. 26.—Dispatches received from General d'Amade, commander of the French forces in Morocco, state that the scattered troops of Abd-El-Aziz are beginning to reassemble at Tetat, where Abd-El-Aziz has taken up his quarters. The sultan of record, it is still believed, is making preparations to proceed to the coast.

A MINISTER'S VIEW OF A LEPER'S CASE

Christianity Has the Power To Heal Unfortunate.

JOHN R. EARLY IS NOT DOOMED TO DIE

Jesus Heals Lepers and Empowers His Followers To Do Likewise. While the Christians Are Praying for Recovery of Early, the Doctors Are Doing Their Best.

Washington, Aug. 26.—"This unfortunate man need not remain a leper if Christianity is what it is claimed to be, for Jesus healed lepers and empowered his followers to do likewise."

With these words, Rev. James Hugh Keeley, a Methodist preacher from Erie, Pennsylvania, now holding evangelistic meetings in Washington, challenges the statement that John R. Early, the leper, victim, is "doomed."

"If we believe the Christianity of the New Testament, it is not consistent to talk about disease being incurable," continued the minister. "The same sort of faith that planted Christianity and supplanted paganism, would not talk about 'doomed' lepers. It would arouse and heal him."

While Rev. Mr. Keeley is counseling the Christians of Washington to pray for Early's recovery, the health authorities of the city are preparing to treat him with anti-leprosy serum and violet rays.

FLAMES IN MINE ARE CONTROLLED

Rescue Party Brings Twenty-Six Bodies Out.

EXPECTS TO FIND FULLY TEN MORE

Victims of the Oklahoma Disaster Are Suffocated.

Fire Is Result of a Miner's Attempt To Divide a Barrel of Oil—Full Extent of the Disaster Will Not Be Known for Many Hours—Many Mules Are Killed as a Result of the Fire.

McAlester, Okla., Aug. 27.—Twenty-six dead bodies have been recovered from the Halley-Ola coal mine No. 1, at Halleyville, 14 miles east of here, where a disastrous fire entombed a large number of miners shortly after they had descended for work. It is believed that 10 more bodies will be recovered.

Explorations in the channels revealed that none of the men met death by burning, but that all of them were suffocated. It is impossible yet for the rescuers to get far from the base of the main shaft, and it probably will be 24 hours before a thorough search of the entire mine can be made. Some of the channels are three-quarters of a mile long.

After the entombed miners had gone down in the cage a fire broke out, occasioned by the ignition of a barrel of oil which a miner was trying to divide. The flames spread at once to the hoisting shaft and the air shaft, and all communication with the top was cut off. The first indication the people on top of the ground had of the trouble was the flames and smoke coming out of the top of the shaft. Hundreds of miners rushed to the scene and tried to get into the air shaft, but it was found that the cages, the cables and the guides had been burned. There was absolutely no help for the imprisoned miners.

A GRIZZLED VETERAN PLEASUED WITH TEST

Colonel W. F. Stewart Will Ride Ninety Miles.

BANISHED OFFICER AT OLD FORT GRANT

The Exile at the Deserted Post States That He Is Able To Ride the Distance as Quickly as a Horse Can Carry Him—He Is in the Best of Physical Condition.

Wilcox, Ariz., Aug. 27.—If his enemies in Washington believed the orders to him to make a ninety-mile horseback ride in three days would break down Colonel William F. Stewart, the grizzled officer who was exiled in Fort Grant because he refused to resign, they were badly mistaken. Stewart shouted with delight when he received the advice, Wednesday.

"I am anxious to make the test ride," Stewart said. "I can ride ninety miles in twenty-one hours instead of three days, or any distance the horse can carry me. I have kept myself in the best of condition since I was ordered to Fort Grant, and feel as fit as a trained athlete."

It has been reported that the test was put "up to" the aged colonel in the belief that he could not stand the ride and would therefore retire. "I have no idea of refusing the test in order to retire. The fact that I have not had a horse has been one of my greatest hardships."

The ruined Fort Grant, where the colonel has been banished, is very desolate. It has been abandoned for years when he was sent there. His only companions are a caretaker and a negro cook.

HALF DOZEN BOYS BURNED WITH ACID

Hamilton, O., Aug. 27.—A new kind of a fiend developed in Hamilton last night when no less than a dozen small boys were badly burned about the face with acid, which was thrown on them by a youth about fifteen years old. In many instances the victims were horribly burned and some may be disfigured for life. The police today arrested Stanley Klue, sixteen, an suspicion.

Won't Stop Fair.

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—"The suit of the Smith Agricultural Chemical company to enjoin the use of state funds will in no way interfere with the state fair, the week of August 31," said Secretary Calvert, of the state department of agriculture, today.

RACE MEN HIT BACK AT HUGHES

Refuse To Start Horses With Governor Present.

THEY MAKE SCENE AT A COUNTY FAIR

Stand Firm Despite Entreaties of the Spectators.

The Racing Program Is Delayed Until the Chief Executive of the State Takes His Departure—Governor Hughes, However, Makes a Speech to a Large Crowd Before Leaving the Agricultural Exhibit.

Ballston, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The openly expressed hostility of owners of trotting horses taking part in the events at the Saratoga county fair toward Governor Charles E. Hughes held up the racing program at the fair grounds for an hour and a half.

Governor Hughes was a visitor at the fair and addressed a big gathering, which gave him a hearty welcome and an attentive hearing. The governor's presence on the grounds, however, was resented by the horse owners, who have taken exception to the governor's efforts to suppress betting on the racetracks of the state. As a consequence they refused to start their horses while the executive was on the grounds.

The "strike" of the horse owners created an unprecedented situation, and caused the management of the fair marked embarrassment. When the conditions became known, a sensation was created among the thousands of spectators on the grounds, and considerable pressure was put upon the trotting men to change their attitude and run off the races as scheduled.

Fair Officials Take Hand. In this the officials of the fair took the lead, urging their case strongly upon the recalcitrant owners and pointing out the awkwardness of the situation caused by the balk in the program. Their efforts were fruitless, however, the owners remaining obstinate, and for an hour and a half refusing to budge from their position. They openly declared that Governor Hughes had antagonized their interests and that they proposed to retaliate by refusing to take their horses out on the track while he was present.

Those in charge of the fair threatened to have the owners disqualified for their refusal to come to time when the races were called, but even this threat had no effect in altering their attitude, and the races were held up during the entire period of the executive's visit to the fair. Immediately upon his departure the racing program resumed.

Hughes Refuses to Talk.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Governor Hughes, on his return from Ballston, had nothing to say regarding the action of the horse owners at the Saratoga county fair.

SECURES EVIDENCE TO ESTABLISH CLAIM

Louis Joseph Lambert Wants Quebec Property.

SEARCHES RECORDS FOR FIFTY YEARS

The Property Claimed by Lambert Is Valued at $20,000,000 and Includes the Famous Chateau Frontenac and the Plains of Abraham—Adjustment of the Matter.

Lewiston, Me., Aug. 27.—Louis Joseph Lambert, an eighty-year-old French resident, believes he has secured evidence which will establish his claim to property in the city of Quebec worth $20,000,000. The estate includes the famous Chateau Frontenac and the Plains of Abraham.

For fifty years Mr. Lambert has been trying to secure papers to prove his claim.

In 1887 the revenue from the estate yielded $150,000 annually, and the authorities proposed dividing it among the churches, but the privy council would not allow the division, declaring the property belonged to the descendants of Colonel Lambert, the claimant's grandfather.

Lambert has secured birth and marriage certificates, and has been called to Quebec on September 5 when the matter will be adjusted.

Earle Out on Bond. Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Ferdinand Pinney Earle, original "affinity" man, artist and alleged wife-beater, was released from jail here today under bond of $1,000 secured by his brother, Victor M. Earle, of New York.

PRESERVATION OF NATURAL RESOURCES

The Plans and Purposes of a New League.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—The plans and purposes of the Conservation League of America, whose aim is to develop and preserve the natural resources of the nation, has been announced.

Central headquarters of the league will be opened in Chicago and a publicity campaign conducted. It is proposed, in so far as possible, to commit all candidates for congressional and legislative offices during the present campaign to the support of the league's announced principles. The league is non-partisan. President Roosevelt is honorary president and William H. Taft and William J. Bryan honorary vice presidents. Walter L. Fisher of Chicago is active president.

The plans provide for the scientific reclamation of the arid and semi-arid regions, the promotion of navigation, the preservation and protection of the forest and mineral resources, and the "preservation and increase of the beauty, wealthiness, and habitability of our country."

THE ISSUE WILL BE CUSS WORDS

Democrats Propose To Make a Fight Against Cannon.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 27.—The Democrats of the Tenth congressional district, which Speaker Cannon represents in the lower house, propose to make a real fight this fall to defeat "Uncle Joe" and the chief issue will be no other than an aversion to the speaker's use of cuss words.

Henry C. Bell, of Marshall, Illinois, popularly known as "Agingdon" Bell, will make the race against the grizzled speaker. Mr. Bell, on the stump, proposes to describe in polite language the impolite language and picturesque methods of expressing himself, used by Speaker Cannon when he speaks.

The only time "Uncle Joe" has met defeat since he first went to Congress in 1890 when Samuel T. Buzey, his victorious opponent, made the issue "cussing."

THE WOOL GROWERS TACKLE A BIG JOB

Want To Secure Control of the Wool Market.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 27.—The problem of restoring to western sheep growers control of the wool market and of taking it from the hands of middlemen has been undertaken by the executive committee of the Wool Growers' association, which is in session here. The committee seeks also to solve the problem of storing western wools.

Agents representing Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Joseph, Missouri, St. Paul and Omaha are here to point out the advantages offered by their respective cities for the establishment of a permanent national wool market.

RIOT LEADER CHEATS LAW

Falls Dead at the Door of the Jail.

TAKES POISON TO EVADE JAIL LIFE

Meets Officer at the Door of Her Home.

Signifies Her Readiness To Accompany Him—Before Leaving Her Home She Takes Poison—She and Sheriff Walk Two Blocks to Jail. Her Falling Gives Him First Intimation of Taking of Acid.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—Sangamon county will be spared the expense of trying Mrs. Kate Howard, indicted for complicity in the recent race riots here, she having committed suicide by swallowing acid while being placed under arrest.

Many witnesses testified before the special grand jury now in session that Mrs. Howard was one of the ringleaders of the mob which wrecked Loper's restaurant and cafe. She was the first person indicted and was held on several counts in the sum of $10,000, which she furnished. When she was released she said she would never be arrested again.

Shortly after the special grand jury returned another indictment against her charging murder in connection with the recent lynchings. Deputy Sheriff Kraus was sent to Mrs. Howard's room to arrest her. Mrs. Howard received the officer at the door. She secretly swallowed a large dose of poison, then said, "I'm ready to go now." She accompanied the deputy to the jail, two blocks away, and was just entering the jail door, when she fell dead.

Every man has a different explanation for his failure to make good.

CONFERENCE AT HEADQUARTERS

Held by the Republican State Candidates

AND CHAIRMAN OF COMMITTEE

Political Conditions Throughout State Are Excellent.

Kentucky Seeks a Buckeye on the Charge of "Bearing False Witness," the Blue Grass State Clinging to the Biblical Term for What in the State of Ohio Would Be Denominated Perjury by Courts.

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—Chairman Henry A. Williams of the Republican state executive committee met a majority of the candidates on the Republican state ticket in a conference at headquarters on the outlook for the campaign. The several candidates agreed in reporting that political conditions throughout the state were in general good. Chairman Williams, as this was the first opportunity he had had to meet with the candidates since beginning the work of the campaign, outlined to them his plans for prosecuting the campaign and informed them what preparatory work had been accomplished. The candidates approved the chairman's plans.

After Olympia Contractor. Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—The state of Kentucky has made requisition upon Governor Harris for the surrender of S. Mendelsohn, a wealthy Olympia contractor, on the charge of "bearing false witness." Kentucky clinging still to the Biblical description of what in Ohio is called perjury. Governor Harris heard the application, but took the case under advisement. The charge against Mendelsohn, is that he swore certain steam shovels, mules, etc., belonged to him, in order, it is alleged, to defraud the creditors of Ryan Bathing company, Kentucky contractors.

Murderer Fractures Skull. Ironton, O., Aug. 27.—Robert J. Frowine, in jail here for the murder of Henry Frecka, attempted suicide by hitting out with his brains against a sharp shelf projection in his cell. The prisoner wounded himself a dozen times before help reached him, and he will likely die, as it is believed that his skull is fractured. The man's scalp is literally hacked to pieces. Frowine and Frecka were rivals for the place of central committeeman on the Republican ticket. Frowine met Frecka on the street and shot him.

Banker on Way Home.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27.—A cablegram to County Sheriff McGorray from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, said that two Cleveland officers are returning having in custody Antonio F. L. Walker. He was seriously burned by the explosion.

Banks Asked For Statement.

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—B. B. Seymour, state superintendent of banks and banking, issued his first call for a statement of the condition of the state banks and trust companies of Ohio at the close of business Aug. 18. No call of this kind has been made on the state banks since Dec. 3 of last year, as the passage of the new banking act took this power away from the auditor of state.

AN ANNUAL REUNION HELD AT CALEDONIA

Members of the Rice Family Enjoy Affair.

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR COMING YEAR

Five Destroys Grain and Stacks on the William Wood Farm Near Caledonia—House and Barn Saved—A Big Sunday-School Picnic—Other Caledonia Notes.

Caledonia, Aug. 27.—[Special.]—The third annual reunion of the Rice families was held on the school grounds Wednesday. There were at least 170 members of the family present. The entire forenoon was taken up by the greetings of visiting members of the family and Rev. James Gray gave a short address.

After an elaborate dinner, the chairman, S. B. Rice, called the members together for a short program. Music was furnished by Edward Hipsher and short speeches were made by W. W. Dix, C. S. Dix and Mr. Buiton while Miss Millie Biggestaff, of Prospect, sang a very pretty solo. The election of officers resulted as follows: W. W. Dix, president; S. B. Rice vice president; Anna Pittman, secretary and M. R. Harrison, treasurer. The next reunion will be held next August in S. B. Rice's grove north of town. The oldest member present was Christian Glatthart, aged eighty-four, while little Elizabeth Ann Harrison was the youngest. The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bollinger, of Bucklen, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. William Burkhardt and daughter, of Cleveland; Jacob and Isaac Burton and Mrs. Robert Cruik, of Lancaster; Mrs. William Dickson, of Cotland; Charles Dix, W. W. Dix, Mrs. C. R. Selander, Mrs. H. Stuffer and daughter, and Mrs. Belle Van Ostan and daughters, Inez and Hortense, of Prospect; J. W. and L. E. Gigsby, of Waldo; Charles and George Foreman and family and Edward Hipsher and mother, Mrs. Elbers, of Marion.

Five destroyed about 150 bushels of oats in the stack for William Wood, west of town, Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The threshers had been at work about a half-hour when one stack was noticed to be on fire. Word was telephoned to town and the alarm was sounded, but as Mr. Wood lives quite a distance from the corporation line and no water was available, the local department did not respond. A large crowd quickly gathered and saved the house and barn which were close to the stack, but a new straw shed burned to the ground. It is thought the fire originated from a spark from the engine.

The forenoon's program consisted only of a song, "America," by the assembly, followed by prayer by Rev. Mr. Christolm and a song by the Kirkpatrick school. After the picnic dinners had been enjoyed, the band played several selections and the Caledonia school sang "Only for Thee." Rev. J. P. Curran, of Marion, invoked the divine blessing. The chairman then introduced Mr. White, ex-mayor of Barnesville and a speaker for the Anti-Saloon league, who gave a fine address on "Intemperance." A vocal selection by young men from Whetstone school and a band selection was followed by another address by Rev. Mr. Curran. The young people from this place were conducted to the picnic grounds in decorated wagons.

George Dan'ol, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Quinn Keightlinger, who reside southeast of here, died of spinal meningitis and cholera infantum, Monday evening, at 5 o'clock. William H. Taft TALKS OF OFFICE

Discusses the Responsibilities of the Presidency—Some Sober Thoughts.

William H. Taft, the Republican party's presidential candidate, wrote an article on his conception of the presidency for a recent issue of Collier's Weekly, in which he says:

"In the four years that I have been a member of the cabinet I have become familiar enough with the responsibilities and burdens of the presidency to know that no man can afford unduly to seek that great office. If he is attracted by honor and power alone, without the hope of being useful, he is unworthy of the honor and unfit for the use of the power."

"He must prefer for the sake of his own peace of mind never to be president to being a poor president. Confident that the platform on which he stands is for the best interests of the nation, he is untrue to himself and his supporters if he does not fight valiantly for election after he accepts the leadership. But of course he must draw the line at any compact which will not leave him free of promise and of the control of any faction."

"In many senses, though the most sought after, he is the loneliest man in the United States. Elected directly by the people, their representative head, from them, in the sober thought of the majority, he will get his best counsel. They as a whole view public affairs unselfishly. Though indifference or preoccupation with private affairs may keep them from attending primaries, or scanning closely either candidate or measures, they can center on the president as their instrument of the expression of their wishes."

"He should be always near the people in thought and as near them in person as his position will permit. In common with the people, he is human, and he must ask their charity for his mistakes. When they have ceased to believe in his sincerity and uprightness of purpose his is a cheerless task."

"Once convinced that he has declined and is carrying out their real wish, neither elated by any ephemeral burst of applause nor diverted by any outburst of censure, he must proceed unwaveringly, always by lawful methods, to the accomplishment of the popular will."

"From Washington he may learn nobility, fortitude and forthrightness. Lincoln's life and speeches must be his source of inspiration when he is misunderstood, and he has to say to himself, 'Patience and cheer.' It is easier since we had Lincoln than it was before to be a good president. He set a standard."

"It remained for Roosevelt to prove how the people will respond to a strong and true leadership when the hour has come for great reforms. The policies which he inaugurated must be continued and developed. They are right, and they are the policies of the people. For that reason his successor may well disregard any charge of lack of originality if he does not make an entirely new programme of his own."

"A president at this time has work before him clearly defined. The enforcement of the law equally against high and low, the powerful and the weak, should be his first thought. The danger to our country from laxity or favoritism in this is the greatest one we have to face. The conservation of our national resources and their development for the use of all along the lines of equal opportunity, too, must command his immediate attention."

"It should be his aim to give high tone to his administration, as Mr. Roosevelt has, by surrounding himself with men of earnest, enthusiastic interest in the public weal and of the clearest but most effective methods."

Kites to Guard a Chicken Yard.

The science of aviation has been adopted by John Wolfe, a poultryman, who has a farm at the top of Hook mountain, near Montclair, N. J., to protect his young chickens from the depredations of hawks. Wolfe keeps several large box kites flying above his henneries, and the hawks take no chances of an encounter with such canny looking birds. Wolfe got the kite idea from his young nephew, who found the locality an ideal one for flying his newfangled box kites, and Wolfe noticed that the hawks took to the woods while the kites were in the air.

Sparring matches and women who make a livelihood by displaying their persons to the gaze of the crowd may strike some as not absolutely necessary to the success of an agricultural exhibit.

"Shall the people rule?" asks Colonel Bryan. Sure! Why not? Whose going to hinder them?

While it may be true, as the chairman of the Populist committee claims, that $200,000 will elect a president, Chairman Hitchcock is of the opinion that the Republicans should have a little more than that if for no other reason than not to humiliate Colonel Bryan.

The way states are being transferred to the Bryan column by enthusiastic visitors at Fairview bids fair to catch some of these aforesaid enthusiasts short when the call for delivery is made something like two months hence.

There is no reason why so much fuss should be made over the fact that President Castro is going to write a book. He isn't the only one guilty of a like offense.

Judging by recent incidents, Australia is a sight nearer the annexation stage than Canada.

Those Minnesota Democrats who cheered Governor Johnson for an hour were perhaps simply practicing for a little cheering stunt in 1912.

A number of Philadelphia spirit-u-alists claim to be able to bring the dead to life, but up to date no one in Philadelphia has opened up a second-hand coffin store.

Hunting for Johnson.

An officer from the state home for epileptics at Gallipolis was in Marion, Sunday, searching for Louis Johnson, aged thirty-five years, who escaped from the home. Johnson was sent to the asylum from Wyandot county, but his family was reported to be living here. Until a week ago, it was learned, the Johnson family lived here, but moved to Delaware.

One thing nice about these canned political speeches, you get the statistics the same every time you hear them.

Those six St. Louis men who committed suicide during the recent heat spell to escape the heat must have had clear consciences.

"After studying this life game for some time," said the fellow who lives next door on the way down town this morning, "I've about come to the conclusion that notoriety is never purchased save at a awful cost."

In case the county fair board makes a contract with a drigible balloon man, it should remember to have it stipulated in the contract that the balloon man must furnish his own help to drag it about the grounds.

That girl to whom her jilted lover left his fortune hasn't made up her mind whether to be pleased or insulted.

When they arrested the wild man at a Pennsylvania fair for the alleged eating of a pet pup, he suddenly became a very normal fakir. It was over thus. Same way in politics. Many a gallery-stormer in reformation only pretends to eat the corporations, but really diets on a strained expense account.

The editor of the State Journal, which speaks for a certain brand of political reformation, says "where two men, a Republican and a Democrat, are being considered for the same position and they were equally qualified, we would appoint the Republican; but if the Democrat were the better qualified, we would appoint him." Well, we wouldn't. And that very brand of high-sounding foolishness has brought about conditions which will give the Republican party one of the big struggles of its existence to win next November. If we were in the position the State Journal premises, and the Republican aspirant did not meet requirements, we would find some other Republican who could and would measure up satisfactorily. The townships are full of them.

An enthusiastic balloonist says the air is conquered. However, if you will observe closely, you will discern that the air is generally pretty well broken—in fact, almost tame enough to eat out of your hand—before these airship fellows tackle it.

Somebody wants to know if forty is too old to marry. Not if anybody asks her.

THE FAMILY REUNIONS ARE REALLY WORTH WHILE

Blessed are the family reunions. May their attendance ever increase. The best booster for the numerical promotion of the family reunion is President Roosevelt, though he was too busy to make the specific application. Maybe he doesn't know what a joy they are. When he was a westerner the West was too new for the reunion, and as an easterner he has probably never experienced their joys.

But the reunion is a good thing, and adds its tinge to the upward tendency of human kind. No man with the dishonorable record ever registers at the family reunion. He can fight it out with his conscience and stand the frowns of a world of strangers, but he can't face a discredited family. There isn't a gathering in the world which is a finer spur to decency or a more potent incentive to worthy accomplishment. Better still it is a reminder to one generation that the world wagged on before, and is pretty sure to keep on revolving after this generation's accounts are entered. There is the intimate note from the aged, speaking of a wonderful past, the simple story of pioneer hardship and struggles, the unpretentious recital of the making of a priceless legacy, wrought in the sturdiness of those who turned the wilderness to gardens, and yet wrought no greater change than another generation is now witnessing and notices not. There are lessons conveyed that no books reveal.

But there is more than this. There is more than the "groaning" tables, with that infinite variety from pickles to marble cake, and cold chicken to cherry pie. There is the touch of real kinship, too often neglected in the struggle to achieve. There is the calling back of those whom fate or fortune or some nurtured intent sent to the cities, to touch elbows again with those who struck close to the soil and its simplicity. Maybe comparisons attend, and those who cling to the country or village life, free from strenuousness and the fever for great accomplishment loom up the stronger in the comparison. There is the inevitable reflection on the struggle of life. What for? How live the most? Some have gotten the wider vision, some have achieved more, if moneyed competence is achievement, but the relatively care-free lives of those who have radiated from the old farms to other farms and continue the pursuit of the rural life, seem to be getting the big share of joy and serenity in this enigma on earth. Anyhow it is good to get together, in this circle of kinship. It is good to total up some of the contributions of the John Smith family to civilization, some of the offerings of the James Browns on the altars of patriotism, some of the helps of the George Joneses to world progress, and so on. Often these are meager, but that does not matter. The result is helpful and encouraging, and the reunion inspires good resolutions.

It is not wholly bad for humanity to drift back to the old family tree, to get to the old farm again and there, amid the current of recollections of childhood, take stock of youthful dreams and mature realities. If hopes have been realized, gratitude will have its sway. If there has been disappointment, and one has the right metal, there is resolution to strive anew, and the family reunion has thus been beneficial. More, sometimes there is a chance to borrow ten, or a risk to be touched for a similar sum, as the case may be, but these are mere incidents to emphasize the family connection. There is a good deal of borrowing and lending in this ceaseless worldly grind, and the touch proves the relationship.

THE FARMER'S PROSPERITY AND CURRENT CAMPAIGN

There is one irrepressible note of joy amid the growing incident to the depression in the trail of the panic. We refer to the prosperity of the farmer. He is in clover a foot high, and there is promise of a big crop of figurative as well as literal clover seed. We have a notion that the farmer's smile of contentment and gratification will prove irritating to the Bryanite whoop-ers before the campaign gets into its full and absorbing swing. Ninety-cent wheat, seventy-five-cent corn, seventy-cent cattle and six-cent hogs are going to render a campaign chorus against disturbing industrial conditions which will very much resemble triumphant music to the Taft forces. These prosperous farmers are untouched by the financial storm of last fall, and have saved all there is of the market for factory products. They are the glad untouched and the hopeful unharmed. They will constitute the old guard, and if they do not resist Mr. Bryan's political experiments, we have missed a confident guess. And the interesting thing about it is that the agriculturalists are even more prosperous in the great and growing West than here in the Ohio valley. The corn-fields of Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska are waving rich promises, save in the flooded districts of last June, oats have yielded fairly and wheat has done well. Alfalfa is repeating several times this year in yielding rich feed, and the live stock conditions are full of agreeable promise. All over the West the farmers have more than comfortable bank deposits, they have funds to buy more lands, but the prosperity boost on land prices has staggered the intending buyers, and swollen bank deposits stand, while the farmer's smile is one that won't come off. A Marionite recently traveling in the West heard only one agriculturalist growl. It was from a farmer who said it was a nuisance to have to build more corn cribs.

At one county seat town in middle Kansas—in bleeding, howling, wonderful Kansas, which, by the way, has more sensible people than her political hysteria sometimes suggests—in a town little larger than Richmond or Cardington, they boast of having an immediate neighborhood of farmers that owns and maintains forty-six automobiles. This doesn't include the dozen or so in town. We are speaking of forty-six actual farmers who drive their buzz-wagons and strain the speed limits, and never turn a hair at the automobile upkeep. If that isn't going some, we offer no other entry. In that very community the Marion visitor, who chanced to inquire the character of a large building on a distant hillside, was answered like this: "Well, sir, that is our county infirmary, but the truth is, sir, it isn't a success. We had nobody to keep there, so we rented the farm for a cash rent, the renter lives in the alms house, and we're saving the rentals for the possible poor who may come." A wonderful story, that, and true, and indicative of gratifying conditions in agricultural sections. But agricultural conditions are good all over the United States. In the Ohio hills, where the soil is a mere sprinkling of nature's generosity, debts are paid and there is coin in the bank, and the farmer's good fortune is attuned to the merriment of well-grounded rejoicing. It will never harmonize with Mr. Bryan's pictures of gloom and portraits of transgression, so long as Mr. Bryan himself is a fine exponent of agricultural thrift and speech-making opulence. Better still, it is the underlying prosperity that must make the partial industrial paralysis merely temporary, and there are signs already of the resumption of the gratifying full-swing of activities that sent everybody moving from 1897 to the autumn of 1907.

Cleveland politicians are a merry lot, regardless of party. Notwithstanding factional differences and annoying conflicts, they go right along, having party picnics, and making merry with baby shows and like hilarity. There must be some inspiration in Tom Johnson's smile.

In all human probability the opposition of the snail interests to Governor Harris' reelection will help to materially increase the area of free territory in Ohio.

"No man who participated in a riot," says the Washington Post, "ever had a good opinion of the militia afterward." As a matter of fact, it's hardly probable that any man who participates in a riot has a good opinion of anything or anybody at any time.

"Mrs. Henri Farman says any consideration she should be able to dress in ten minutes," according to the Washington Post, which adds, "Possibly she could if her husband wouldn't spend most of the ten minutes in buttoning her waist." The Post, we are happy to note, is on the right track, but it doesn't tell how many of the ten minutes the wife spends getting out hubby's fresh linen and underwear, putting the buttons in his shirt, and links in his cuffs, laying out the suit he desires to wear and tying his cravat. Oh, there are surely two sides to this good, stale old joke about the time women take in "dressing."

When we read about the scramble for untainted campaign funds, thought drifts joyously to the few campaign ago when the Marion county committee had so much of its $600 left that the committee blew the balance on a banquet. That was prior to the reformation, too.

Mr. Taft declines to be present at the Youngstown meeting because he dislikes to hear his name cheered. It is not thought this difference between Mr. Taft and President Roosevelt will seriously mar Mr. Taft's chances of election.

The Washington Post is satisfied that a 300-page campaign textbook will be gratefully received by every man who shaves himself.

That $10,000 limit to campaign contributions is getting to be funnier every day to everybody but the candidates and the hangers-on.

There will be one nice phase to aerial navigation, if it ever becomes practicable. Mothers won't worry themselves to death fearing their boys will try to jump on and get run over.

It is charged that Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma, has written a campaign song in which he attempts to make "trying" rhyme with "Bryan." If there is anything in the story we will not have to look any further for the "crime of 1908."

The Chicago News acknowledges its inability to help President Roosevelt out on his problem of "how to withdraw the American troops from Cuba and still render the island permanently safe." Might withdraw the Cubans also.

About the middle of next month the reader will begin to note many unfamiliar names in the columns of the daily press—names of "lifelong Democrats" who will vote for Taft and "hitherto enthusiastic" Republicans who will cast their ballots for Bryan.

A man up in Chicago has been arrested for trying to get a $1,000 bill changed. We feel comparatively safe from ever getting into trouble with the minions of the law on that account.

However, Mr. Chafin should remember that this is the season of the year when humanity takes to water as naturally as a duck. The question is, how will the voters take it next November when he exhorts them, as the Chicago News puts it: "Come on in, boys, the water is fine."

"Is the earth drying up?" asks the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune. What? Has the prohibition wave hit the Queen City?

At times the thought steals into Artisl Earle's mind that possibly the young woman for whom he deserted his wife isn't really his affinity.

Redeeming Forbearance. With all President Castro's faults, we never heard that he made a speech of acceptance.—Ohio State Journal.

Hard Proposition. Mr. Taft is going fishing. He will have to construct some wonderful yarns before he can hope to sell them at two dollars a word.—Chicago News.

Used Like Can Opener. Tom Watson has opened the campaign twice with the same speech. Evidently he wanted to make sure that it was open.—Youngstown Vindicator.

Kegged Fruit. They evidently have a new name for it in Milwaukee, as a newspaper up there says that "tons of fruit are used daily to quench the city's thirst."—Columbus Press-Post.

Another Victory. Chairman Hitchcock has announced that Arthur Vorys will be a member of the campaign advisory committee. Great victory for the Vorys men!—Sandusky Star-Journal.

On Paying Basis. As we understand the monthly reports of the Tom Johnson Street Car company, three-cent fare began to pay as soon as it was put up to five cents.—Ohio State Journal.

No Use for Time. No wonder times are slow in Detroit. The latest tax returns for the city show that only four people in town own watches, while a grandfather's clock is not even mentioned.—Columbus Press-Post.

VETERANS OF CIVIL WAR ENJOY REUNION

Gathering Is Held at Garfield Park.

ADDRESSES HEARD WITH MUCH INTEREST

The Reminiscences of the 136th Regiment, O. V. I., Are Reviewed and the Day Is Passed in a Most Agreeable Manner—The Old Officers To Serve Next Year.

Although the fourteenth annual reunion of the 136th Ohio Volunteer Infantry was not as large as in previous years, the day will long be remembered by those present as one of the most enjoyable reunions ever held. The old soldiers to the number of fifty and their friends, numbering in all about 100, gathered at Garfield park in the morning and passed the entire day in recalling the days of the civil war and the personal experiences of that historical period.

At noon a great feast was spread. There was enough for all present and many more. The old officers were re-elected for another year, as follows: William Brooks, of Edison, president; L. Maxwell, of Mt. Gilead, vice president; W. B. Denman, of this city, secretary and treasurer.

The next reunion will be held, the last Thursday in August, 1909, at Mt. Gilead.

No resolution was passed at Thursday's regimental reunion favoring temperance, but practically every old soldier present expressed his views against liquor. They were stirred to a high pitch of enthusiasm by Dr. J. B. Fowler, of Delaware, who gave an address on "The True Soldier Against the Vile Enemy, the Liquor Traffic." Dr. Fowler told of the abuses of strong drink in forceful language, and was loudly applauded. He was followed by Rev. C. M. Crist, of Delaware, who gave the unwritten history of the regiment. Next year Rev. Mr. Crist will have prepared a history of the regiment, which he will present to the old soldiers at their Mt. Gilead reunion.

Captain C. A. Rose, of Miami, Florida, a delegate to the national G. A. R. encampment at Toledo next week, was present and delivered a short address. Captain Rose lived at Cardington thirty years ago. He was a member of the regiment and was greatly pleased at being able to attend the reunion. While in Marion he was the guest of his old friend and comrade, W. B. Denman.

Dr. G. T. Harding, of this city, a member of the regiment, made the address of welcome. President Brooks, Vice President Maxwell and W. B. Denman made addresses, the latter speaking at intervals.

Rev. L. C. Webster, of this city, read an original poem on "Old Glory." He was followed by Mayor Louis Scherff, who spoke on "Temperance." He was frequently applauded. City Solicitor Elmer T. Boyd also made a short address, in which he felicitated the old soldiers and expressed his pleasure in being present.

The 136th regiment, which was composed of "Home Guards," was organized by Colonel William Ervin, of Mt. Gilead, in 1861, for 100 days' service. When Grant called for troops on his march to Richmond, the governors of Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York went to Washington and informed President Lincoln they could raise from 150,000 to 175,000 soldiers within ten days. Lincoln gave them the word and within ten days a great host of soldiers were on their way to Washington, and that is how the old 136th Ohio National guards became the 136th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. There were ten companies in the regiment—four from Morrow county, three from Union, one from Marion, one from Crawford and one from Delaware.

The morning of May 12 the regiment arrived at Camp Chase, Columbus, and the evening of the next day it was mustered, uniformed, and aboard trains for Washington. May 20, the regiment was placed on garrison duty in Fort Ellsworth, Williams and North, a part of the defenses of Washington, south of the Potomac, and was assigned to the Third brigade, De Russy's division. It remained on garrison duty until August 20, 1861, and was mustered out at Columbus, September 10, having lost from disease two officers and twenty-three men.

GERMANY'S PROBLEM.

King Edward, probably more than any other man, is responsible for the present grouping of the powers; England, France and Spain; England and Russia; England and Japan; France and Japan; Russia and Japan; all of which serve to strengthen in Western Europe the Franco-Russian dual alliance as opposed to the now weakened and insecure triple alliance of Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy. Such is the mutual protective league which is supposed to isolate Germany and keep a check upon her ambitions for territory beyond the seas and for the dominance of those seas.

And yet these ambitions are easily explicable and justifiable from the German imperial point of view. The increasing population of the fatherland forces a large annual emigration, which ultimately becomes lost to her. There are no German colonies which can furnish the raw materials for German industries. There are few profitable markets for German commodities. The home food products are growing scarcer every year. Were the short German coast line to be blockaded by a hostile fleet Germany would starve. For this reason Germany is building up her merchant marine and a fleet able to protect it and its home ports and to be ready for such other eventualities as the hazard of international complications may present.

From every point of view the pursuit of these antagonizing policies is not only very expensive for all concerned, but is a constantly disturbing factor in the whole fabric of world politics and industry. And yet there is no vital reason in these practical days why it should be so.—New York Times.

It has been a long while since the country was visited with a smallpox epidemic. Diphtheria has ceased to be a ghost head around the nursery. Tuberculosis can be cured, typhoid so treated as to rob it, in most cases, of the victorious grave.

Thus one malady after another loses its skill and crossbones terrors. Surely the medical laboratories of the world are humanity's best friends.—Chicago Examiner.

But for our sorrows we should be unable to appreciate our joys.

It is almost as easy to find trouble as it is to make excuses for it.

AN EPWORTH CHURCH AFFAIR AT THE PARK

A Crowd Numbering About 1,000
Is in Attendance.

BIG SUCCESS IN SPITE OF WEATHER

A Big Feature of the Evening Is a Burlesque on the Notification Meetings of Taft and Bryan—Presidential Candidates Are Represented by Local People.

The air was too cool for picnicers, but, nevertheless, it is estimated that at least 1,000 people went to Lincoln park to attend the outing and entertainment given by the Epworth Sunday-school of the Epworth M. E. church, Tuesday evening.

The big feature of the affair was the presence of the pseudo-presidential candidates of the two great political parties—William Howard Taft and William Jennings Bryan. These celebrities were there to receive formal notification of their nomination.

J. B. Virden, who planned the innovation, found it a rather difficult task, because he could not find an eligible Democrat to represent the "Peelless One." Finally, Fred W.
Warner, a Republican, fearing failure of Mr. Virden's plans might disap-point those who had been looking forward to the picnic, with its advertised "political significance," volunteered his services.

Imagine a tall young man, built something after the fashion of an ideal rail-splitter, impersonating that famous character of poetic locks and lyric expression, a possessor of a freesilvered tongue and a personality so predatory that the name of Bryan is now a synonym for opulence! But Warner did it, and with credit to himself and the Nebraska. In a burst of eloquence and matchless rhetoric, Warner "accepted" the nomination,
while the chill August wind whispered a mournful refrain and caused the picnickers to draw their wraps closer about them. Homer E. Johnson, a Bourbon Democrat, made the presentation speech, employing a choice of words that suited the occasion and marked him as a finished orator.

Of course, it was an easy thing for Chairman Virden to find some one to represent Taft. John J. Crawley, a Speaker Cannon brand of a Republican, did it in accomplished style. In a short speech, sound in logic and at the same time showing the clear argument of the trained man of affairs, used to heavy responsibilities of government, Mr. Crawley, as the fat, jovial, smiling Mr. Taft "accepted" the nomination from the hands of the people and thereby solved the somewhat belated question, "Shall the people rule?"

H. Edmund Hill, the Republican candidate for the general assembly, who is dreaming of the hour when he may make the walls of the legislative chamber at Columbus ring with his eloquence, made the presentation address. Following Taft's acceptance, the band played "Hail to Our Chief."
"Little Boy Blue" was the favorite "piece" supplied by the band in the Bryan ceremonies.

The ceremonies began at 8:30 o'clock when "Souza's" band met the candidates and distinguished visitors at the end of the street car line and marched to the pavilion, where the notification programs were observed.
The affair proved to be the big success that Mr. Virden and his associates had planned it to be, in spite of the coolness of the evening.

A COMMISSION SETTLES DISPUTES

The Matter of Paying for a Joint County Ditch.

The commission named by the probate judge of this county and Morro county to settle a dispute between the Marion and Morro county commissioners over a joint county ditch held a meeting in the probate court room, Tuesday. The estimated cost of the ditch improvement is $3,200. The commission fixed Morro county's part at $500, the remainder to be paid by the Marion county commissioners.

The ditch drains 1,000 acres in Morro county and 1,700 acres in Marion county.

The commission was composed of John I. Patterson, a county commissioner of Richland county; L. Batenfield, a former county commissioner of Crawford county; G. W. Martin, a farmer of Wyandot county, and A.
R. Mayfield, a Delaware county farmer.

Some Fast Time.
Carroll May, the official liberator for Cleveland shooting clubs received word, Wednesday, that the birds he liberated Sunday morning had been very successful in the 100-mile fly.
Thomas, a bird from the J. C. Simon loft, finished third. This bird averaged 930.56 yards a minute in the contest, while the winner made 995.10 yards a minute. Considering the atmospheric conditions, this time is regarded remarkably fast.

REV. G. W. SOWERS GIVEN HIS LIBERTY

Released from Workhouse on Writ of Habeas Corpus.

Rev. G. W. Sowers, pastor of a Methodist church at Oak Harbor, who is known here, has been released from the workhouse at Pittsburg on a writ of habeas corpus. He was committed last week to serve sixty days in default of the payment of a fine of $100. The fine was imposed by a magistrate on a charge of inserting advertisements in Smoky City newspapers for stenographers, without having an office, and for a wife, although he is already married.

The court took no testimony in the hearing of the writ for the minister's liberty, but, after reviewing the records, declared that the magistrate had exceeded his jurisdiction and scored him, declaring: "The hearsay of persons was taken instead of evidence."

In the court-room there were many prominent clergymen and members of the laity.

Rev. Mr. Sowers, who was completely exonerated of the charge, formerly was a pastor at West Liberty, and is a son-in-law of Rev. A.
H. Windsor, of Bellefontaine.

VERY UNIQUE AFFAIR PLANNED FOR PARK

The "Bills" of the City and County To Gather.

A GREAT REUNION OF "BILL" FAMILY

Some of the "Bills" of the City Are Arranging for Picnic and Will Invite "Bill" Taft and "Bill" Bryan
To Join the Boys in Having a Merry Time.

A movement is on foot among some of the "Bills" of Marion county to have a "Bill" picnic at Lincoln park during the first or second week in September and extend invitations to the two presidential candidates—
"Bill" Taft and "Bill" Bryan.

William W. Klinefelter, William
B. Strayer, William R. Waddell, William J. Fies, William Bland and W. J. Nelson are among the "Bills" who are active in promoting the big picnic.

It is estimated that there are at least 3,000 men and boys in the county who bear the name of William, Willard, Wilbur, etc., who are entitled to the nickname of "Bill," and an invitation will be extended to all these to attend the outing. The invitations will be merely informal, except to the standard-bearers of the two political parties, who will be sent written invitations.

"We don't expect Taft or Bryan to attend our picnic," said County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter, Wednesday, "but we are going to send them an invitation, anyhow, and it may be that Taft might take a notion to come if he takes a swing through Ohio."

County Clerk Klinefelter will call a meeting of a number of the "Bills" with a view to perfecting an organization. Committees will then be appointed and final arrangements completed as soon as possible for the big outing.

The wives and sweethearts and other relatives of all the "Bills" in the county will be invited to attend.
In fact, as with all picnics, the women folk will have to furnish the grub.

was performed by Rev. Mr. Kennedy, pastor of Grace Reformed church,
only a small company of the relatives being present. Mr. Rinehart has been employed at the shops of the Huber Manufacturing company and is quite well known.

After a short wedding trip through the southern part of the state, Mr.

their friends in this city. The bride is quite well known here, having frequently visited her sister, Mrs.
William Bosh, of north Greenwood

MRS. JOSEPH BECK IS PLAINTIFF IN A SUIT

Seeks To Set Aside Deed on Pre-Nuptial Contract.

WANTS A PROPERTY ON JEFFERSON STREET

Is Given a Quit-Claim Instead of a Warranty Deed—Receiver Files a Motion To Sell Property of Ohio Novelty & Electric Sign Company.
Common Pleas Court Notes.

Della Beck, through her attorneys,
J. W. Thompson and L. E. Myers, filed a petition in the common pleas court, Thursday morning, seeking to set aside a deed, and incidentally revealing a pre-nuptial contract. Joseph Beck, the husband, is made defendant. The plaintiff asserts that they were married May 14, 1906. Prior to the wedding they mutually entered into a contract, which contract, it is now alleged, the defendant has since taken. The wife claims that the defendant "wrongfully and fraudulently in her absence surreptitiously took possession of it."

By the terms of the alleged contract, the plaintiff, then a widow, agreed to marry the defendant in consideration that she was to receive a property on Jefferson street. The agreement was that the property should be deeded to her with the provision that he should have a natural life claim in the real estate. Instead of recording a warranty deed to her, the plaintiff asserts that the records show it to be a quit-claim deed with certain provisions that are entirely outside of their mutual contract. She, therefore, asks that the present deed be set aside and that she be given a deed in accordance with their contract, which she asks that the defendant be compelled to deliver.

In the suit of the Marion Savings Bank company against the Ohio
Novelty Sign & Electric company, Receiver L. B. McNeal filed a motion in common pleas court, Thursday morning asking for an order of sale, directing him to sell the property of the company at public sale.

In the cases of Clyde Smith by his next friend, Laura Smith, and Floyd
Ash, by his next friend, Hamilton
Ash, against the Erie Railroad company, the defendant through its attorneys, Cissinger & Galtrey, has filed motions to require the next friends to give security for the costs, holding, in the matters that the next friend in each case is insolvent.

CAPTAIN C. A. ROSE VISITOR IN THE CITY

Is Attending Annual Reunion at Garfield Park.

Captain C. A. Rose, of Miami, Florida, is in the city, the guest of his old friends, W. B. Denman and Dr. J. H. Lower. Captain Rose came here to attend the reunion of the 136th regiment, O. V. I., which was held Thursday at Garfield park, and also to attend the annual reunion of the G. A. R. at Toledo, next week, to which he is a delegate.

Captain Rose originally lived at Cardington and was well acquainted throughout this county. He went to Florida and located at Miami, having been appointed a revenue inspector fifteen years ago. Resigning that position a few years later, he engaged in the cultivation of oranges and is known throughout the state as a big man in that business. Captain Rose is also one of the state's prominent Republicans. His friends are trying to induce him to run for county sheriff, but he refuses to do so. He says that he expects they will nominate him against his wishes. The nomination, under the existing conditions, is practically the same as election. Mr.
Rose is also president of the Miami Cement Block company, one of the town's big industrial institutions. He is also president of the Northern Society of Ohio. On his farm he raises a rare fruit known as the alligator pear. He brought his local friends samples.

LITTLE IS BUILDING A FLYING MACHINE

He Will Operate It on the Local Fairgrounds.

P. F. Little, who conducts a repair shop at the corner of State and Church streets, has invented a flying machine. The machine is not of the airship variety, nor of the kind that have been tested from barn tops, but the inventor claims it is a real flying machine and that he is assured of its success because he has made a test of it. The machine is operated by a gasoline motor and is composed of four large boats that travel in a circle on the order of a merry-go-round. On either end of the bottoms of the boats, a wheel is located and this works on a track. Riding on the machine gives one the same effect as riding in a row boat over a large wave. Part of the time the boats of the machine are sailing through the air at a height of about eight feet, while at other times they are on the track.

The inventor is planning to operate the machine during the fair, next month, and following the fair, will erect it at Lincoln park. So confident is he of the success of his invention that he has already applied for a patent.

CIVIL WAR FOUGHT BY ARMIES OF BOYS

An Interesting Record of Ages of Soldiers.

The records in the office of the adjutant general at Washington show that in the war of the rebellion the enlisted men were of the following ages:

Ten years old and under, twenty-

Mrs. Lulu Russell, residing on Hoyles street, made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide, Wednesday eve-

GREAT GATHERING OF FARMERS THURSDAY

First Annual Picnic in the Blow Grove.

THE CROWD ASSEMBLED FROM FOUR COUNTIES

The Affair Is Given by the Farmers of Marion, Hardin, Wyandot and Crawford Counties—Some Fine Addresses Are Delivered and Nice Program Is Enjoyed.

Probably no spot in the county affords a more ideal picnic ground than the Dayton Blow Grove, where, Thursday, was held the first annual outing of farmers from Marion, Hardin, Wyandot and Crawford counties. Located four miles and a half north of LaRue and four miles west of Scott Town, at the intersection of the Marion-Kenton and Marcellus pikes, it is within easy access to the people of a thickly populated rural community. The grove contains about twenty-five acres of practically virgin forest, in the cool, shady depths of which the picnickers revelled all day.

It is the purpose of the promoters of Thursday's picnic to make it an annual affair and to rival in attendance in the future the big farmers' outing held every year at Gast's grove at Prospect. They believe that, in time, the crowds will be as large, if not larger, because, instead of it being a Marion county undertaking, it will be an event in which the farmers of several counties will participate.

Perhaps 3,000 people attended the first annual picnic. The beautiful grove was well filled with people and vehicles, but there was room for thousands more. A huge arch, built of cornstalks, was erected over the entrance to the grove. "Welcome," in great letters, ran across the top, where all could see. The arch was draped in bunting and flags.

The picnickers began arriving at the grove about 9 o'clock in the morning. They came afoot, horseback and in all sorts of conveyances. It was surprising the number of automobiles there, too, and the most of them were owned by farmers. By noon there was a great, jolly throng in the woodland, and everywhere was the candidate. He was here and there, shaking hands and dishing out his cards. Every candidate in the county, with one or two exceptions, was at the picnic. They mingled among the farmers as one of them and were extended a royal welcome.

When the great picnic feast was spread at noon not a candidate was overlooked. He was corralled and brought, not unwillingly, nay, nay, to stacks of good things to eat. There was enough for all for dinner and plenty for supper if the crowd had remained.

Shortly before the noon hour, C. W. Needles, a prominent farmer of that section, delivered a brief address of welcome. A space of two or three acres, near the center of the grove, had been roped off and at one end of this was constructed a speakers' stand. Overhead were placed green boughs and on the sides great bundles of green corn were stacked. Around and above bunting was arranged and flags hung. Choice fruits of every kind were placed in front of the speakers' stand. It looked like an agricultural exhibit at a county fair.

Grant E. Mouser, of this city, and Carl C. Anderson, of Fostoria, rival candidates for congress, were billed as the principal speakers. Anderson failed to materialize, but sent a substitute in the person of his neighbor, Jesse Stephens, of Fostoria. Mr. Stephens arrived at the grove in an automobile, making a record run to reach the picnic in time to express the sorrow and regret of Mr. Anderson because of his inability to attend. In his speech Mr. Stephens declared that he had been a farmer. He had been raised on the farm, he said, and longed for it now. In a voice that apparently trembled with the emotion of unshed tears he recalled the scenes of his childhood and urged the young men of today to stick to the farm.

While Mr. Stephens was speaking, a number of Anderson men passed through the crowd laden with feathers, which they threw on the clothing of the people. The feathers had a bar attached so they would stick and bore the printed words, "Stick to Anderson for congress."

Congressman Mouser, in the midst of his old home people, was given an ovation as he mounted the stage. He, too, expressed his regrets because Mr. Anderson was unable to attend and referred familiarly to the Democratic candidate for congressional honors as Carl. Like the speaker before him, he advised the young man to stick to the farm. In glowing words he praised the farmer and President Roosevelt. He declared that the president was happier on his farm at Oyster Bay, when he went forth with ax on shoulder to chop down a tree or with fork in hand to the field to pitch his own hay than he was in the White House.

Edmund Hill, the Republican candidate for representative, was called upon and made a few remarks, congratulating the farmers on the splendid success of their picnic.

The Marcellus band of twenty pieces was present and played in the morning and the afternoon. Class songs were rendered by Paw Paw, Marcellus, DeCliff and Scott Town Sunday-schools.

Rev. Mr. Kinnear, of La Rue, invoked the divine blessing. A male sextet rendered two selections, and L. B. McNeal, of this city, played a flute solo, responding to an encore. Tiny Miss Hazel Riley sang a solo and the little Misses Mears gave a duet. Miss Mildred Blow sang a solo.

The officers, under whose auspices the picnic was given, are H. E. Gillespie, president; J. L. Hastings, vice president; M. G. Day, secretary; Dayton Blow, treasurer.

A CONVENTION AT PROSPECT THURSDAY

W. C. T. U. Workers Hold Annual Meeting.

Officers Elected for Coming Year.

Addresses Are Delivered on the Temperance Theme and Are Heard with a Great Deal of Interest—The Program Is Pleasing in Every Detail. Business Transacted.

Prospect, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union of Marion county was held at the Baptist church at Prospect Thursday, August 27. The following county officers were present:

President, Mrs. Eva L. Fletcher; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Martha B. Dugan, recording secretary, Mrs. O. J. Elliott; treasurer, Mrs. L. Ada Dilworth.

The morning session was devoted to the business part of the program with reports from the different local unions and superintendents. Mrs. Belle Roberts, of Prospect, in a few well-chosen words, welcomed the visiting delegates and friends. A response was made by Mrs. C. E. Rowley, of Marion. At 11:30 a noon prayer meeting was held.

In the afternoon Miss Ada Chafin read a well-prepared paper on the subject, "Temperance in the Sunday-school." She entreated the teachers to make earnest preparation for this all-important work. The temperance lessons should first of all be taught in the home. Much of this work is delegated to the Sunday-school teacher. This teacher should appeal to the child's reason and assist in developing his will power that he may more readily overcome temptations.

Rev. A. J. Clere, pastor of the Baptist church, having no prepared address, read an interesting paper on "Temperance." He said the temperance workers were standing at the dawn of a brighter day and that "Victory" was imbedded in their crowns. By their combined and untiring efforts they will accomplish much, for in unity there is strength.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Stella Messenger; recording secretary, Mrs. O. J. Elliott; treasurer, Mrs. L. Ada Dilworth.

In the evening a very fine talk was given by the state worker, Mrs. Mabel Perce, of Columbus. She said in part that character building was the cry of the twentieth century, and urged her hearers to build Christ-like, eternal characters. Three essentials are necessary to character building, namely, education and environment. On the women depends chiefly the county local option. They are the generators of enthusiasm for the men to cast their vote right.

Miss Millicent Diggerstaff rendered a beautiful piano solo, after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. J. Clere.

SWISS FAMILY HOLDS MEETING AT PROSPECT

Third Annual Reunion in Gast's Grove.

Prospect, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The third annual Swiss reunion was held at Gast's park, Thursday, August 27. Over 100 people were present to enjoy a splendid picnic dinner. The Swiss band was also present to enliven the occasion.

During the afternoon addresses were made by Charles Blymer and W. A. Howard, the candidate for representative in Delaware county. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Charles Blymer; secretary and treasurer, Earnest Swickheimer, of Delaware.

The new reunion will be held in Gast's grove the last Thursday in August, 1909.

The friends from a distance were Mrs. Fred Mayfield and Mrs. French, of Detroit; Mrs. Richards, of Cleveland; William Bader and son, Martin, of Kenton.

ATLANTIC CITY FEARS DROUTH

Governor Fort's Proclamation Creates a Sensation.

GRAND JURY DEFIES JUDGE

Refuses to Indict Saloon Men For Alleged Violations of Excise Laws and Is Summarily Discharged—Officers Intimate That People Want Open Sunday and Recent Attempt of State Authorities to Interfere in Local Affairs.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—Governor Fort's proclamation to the people of New Jersey threatening to send troops into this famous resort to enforce state liquor laws unless people here observe the law, caused a sensation among the residents and the thousands of summer visitors. Close on the heels of the governor's proclamation, another sensation was sprung at Atlantic county, when the grand jury absolutely refused to obey the instructions of the court to return indictments against excise violators. Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who had been requested by Governor Fort to sit with the county judge, was so incensed at the action of the grand jury that he instantly discharged it with a severe reprimand.

While the governor's proclamation came as a startling piece of news, it was not wholly unexpected, as there had been rumors for days that he would resort to the calling out of the militia if necessary to enforce the excise laws. What the result of the proclamation will be remains to be seen, but it is freely predicted that it will be much more difficult to purchase liquor in this seaside resort next Sunday than on any other Sabbath in the history of the town. The governor, however, is not feared by some of those who have been prominent in the trouble, and some even received the news with amusement, believing that the governor has no authority to send soldiers into the county unless the sheriff admits that he is powerless to enforce the laws of the state.

Senator Promises Relief.

State Senator Wilson, a member of the grand jury, said: "Trenton can take it upon the wall that Atlantic City will have the law changed."

Chief of Police Woodruff was asked what action would be taken by his department if the troops are called out. He said: "Well, the matter has been brought to a head now. One side or the other must lose. We will give the troops a royal reception if they come, just the same as we accord other visitors."

The Rev. E. D. Bonne, a member of the state crimes commission, said: "There'll be blood shed in Atlantic City yet if this thing keeps up. It's not such a joke as some people seem to think."

TAFT'S GIVEN FAREWELL

Hotel Guests Present Them With Silver Loving Cups.

Hot Springs, Va., Aug. 28.—Judge Taft, Mrs. Taft and Master Charles Taft were each presented with a silver loving cup as a formal farewell expression of their regard by the 350 guests of the Homestead hotel.

The guests gathered in the ballroom, where for an hour Burr McIntosh lectured and showed incidentally a half hundred views of Mr. Taft in his various occupations and pastimes, taken during his stay of nearly two months in this mountain resort.

Speechmaking of a lighter vein, interspersed with music and followed by a reception in honor of the candidate and his family, in which they shook the hands of every guest, constituted an evening of good feeling and animation. Judge Taft and Colonel John C. McAnerny were escorted to the front while "Dixie" was played and the colonel, in a most happy vein, presented the cup to the candidate, and Mr. Taft responded. Mrs. Taft was next brought forward and received her cup at the hands of Mrs. Luke P. Blackburn. An even dozen little girls in white surrounded Master Charles Taft and made him the bustling recipient of a miniature form cup.

French Youth in Jail For Threatening Roosevelt.

Bordeaux, Aug. 28.—That an attempt was made to blackmail President Roosevelt was disclosed at the court martial of Camille Marquet, a member of the military ambulance corps, who, according to the evidence before the court, wrote to the president on Jan. 9 demanding on behalf of "my society" without other specification, $2,000, "on account of services rendered during the presidential election," and promising further "immense help." Receiving no reply to this demand, Marquet wrote again on March 9, threatening a scandal "which will cast dishonor upon the family unless the money is forthcoming at a fixed date." In conclusion the writer of the letter recommended the greatest discretion, adding: "The highest heads are no longer safe on their shoulders; look at Portugal!"

The president handed the letters to the French consul general, who communicated with the French police. Marquet was brought up for court martial, but the court, in consideration of the good character of the youth, sentenced him to six days' imprisonment, giving him the benefit of the first offenders' law.

AUGUSTA FACES GRAVE PROBLEM

Recent Floods Have Rendered Thousands Idle.

MILLS UNABLE TO OPERATE

Citizens Will Hold Meeting to Devise Means of Caring For Unemployed Until Break in Waterpower Can Be Repaired—Waters Recede Rapidly After Having Reached Height of Forty Feet—Fifteen Lives Reported to Have Been Lost.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 28.—After reaching a height of 40 feet, which is as high as the flood of 1888, the floodwaters at Augusta began receding. Rain has ceased in the upper valley and there is no danger of further losses. The loss, approximately $750,000 to $1,000,000, consists of damage to stocks of goods and private property, losses on the streets, destruction of the wagon and railroad bridges across the Savannah river and breaks in the canal banks. There are dependent on the canal for power eight large and small cotton mills. Thousands of mill operatives will be idle for three to four months.

While the flood was at its height five fires broke out. The McDaniel builders' material establishment, in North Augusta, burned, and 40 cars of Southern railway burned in Hamburg, just across the river. Nixon's lumber, cement and hay warehouse and a huge quantity of lumber belonging to the Georgia railway, at the Georgia railway yards, were burned. There were several other smaller fires. The Augusta Railway & Electric company can not run their cars for three days. No power plant is in operation, the telephone lines are not doing business, and the railroads are accepting no passengers. The water service is crippled but intact. The gas company is impaired, but not shut down. There have been 10 to 15 drownings, mostly of negro laborers.

There will be a citizens' meeting to take measures to relieve suffering, which is on the increase, especially in the northwestern section of the city, from which the water will not recede for two or three days.

Earle was surrounded by newspaper correspondents the moment he stepped from the jail, but he stopped only long enough to say: "I am going to find my wife, no matter where she is. USES OKLAHOMA LAW AS SAMPLE Candidate Bryan Discusses Bank Guaranty at Topeka.

TALKS TO IMMENSE THROGG

Argues That by Making Deposits Secure Much Money That Is Now in Hiding Would Make Its Reappearance in Channels of Trade—Does Not Favor Government Taking Hand in Financial System by Establishing Postal Savings Banks.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 28.—Before an audience which filled the auditorium to overflowing, W. J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for president, spoke on the subject of guaranty of bank deposits. Previously he had delivered three other addresses, two from the veranda of the hotel and the third at Garfield park, where he attended a picnic by the Knights of Pythias, his latter theme being "Fraternity."

On the subject of guaranteed bank deposits, Mr. Bryan spoke in part as follows: "Why not make the depositor secure? A bank asks deposits on the theory that the depositor is sure of the return of his money, and the laws ought to make the facts conform to the theory. The depositor, the community and the banker himself will be benefited by legislation which will give to every depositor the assurance that that which is committed to the keeping of the bank will be available to meet the needs at any time. Such is not the case today, for while all banks are reasonably secure, they are not absolutely so. This statement can be verified in several ways."

First—The president has advocated a postal saving bank, and his postmaster general, in presenting an argument in its favor, pointed out that many millions are sent to European savings banks every year by Americans or foreign birth who prefer to trust the state institutions of the nations beyond the sea rather than the private banking institutions here.

Second—It is known that a considerable amount of money is in hiding, the amount increasing with the approach of a panic or business depression. This money is not only withdrawn from active use, but is likely to be withdrawn just at the time when money is most needed and when the withdrawal will increase the financial disturbance. Distrust and distrust alone, can explain the hiding of money.

Third—The increase in the issue of money orders, payable to the order of the purchaser, is another evidence that people are seeking greater security for their money.

Says Bankers Confess.

Fourth—National bankers confess that their banks are not secure when they oppose the guaranty of state banks on the ground that it would lessen the deposits in national banks, and state bankers confess that banks are not secure when they oppose a national guaranty system on the ground that it will draw deposits away from state banks.

Fifth—The experience of Oklahoma furnished conclusive proof that depositors do not feel that their money is safe in the unsecured banks. On Dec. 17, 1907, the Oklahoma legislature enacted a deposit guaranty law, which became operative Feb. 4, 1908, by the provision of this law all state banks and as many national banks as desire to avail themselves of the law are taxed 1 per cent on their deposits, and the money thus collected is put into a guaranty fund. The banking board is authorized to make additional assessments from time to time to keep the fund up to this amount and is directed to take possession of any insolvent bank, pay the holders of money orders, and reimburse the fund by collecting the assets of the failed bank. Five hundred and fifty banks, including 34 national banks, had come under the provision of the law on May 14 last, leaving but 255 unsecured banks (all national) in the state. State banks are made by the banks in December and May. Between these periods the secured banks gained a deposits of $1,237,752.22, while the unsecured banks, all national, showed a decrease in deposits of $1,017,807.88. The decrease in the unsecured banks can only be explained in one way. A large number of depositors withdrew their money from the unsecured banks and deposited it in the secured banks.

What Republicans Propose.

The Republican party proposes the establishment of a postal savings bank system. The Democratic party prefers the guaranty bank because it is better for the depositor and better for the banker. It gives the depositor the security which he needs and yet leaves the banking business in the hands of the banks. But the Democratic party declares for "a postal savings bank if the guaranty bank can not be secured," and in November more than 90 per cent of the voters will by their ballots demand either the guaranty bank or the postal savings bank. Can the bankers prevent the carrying out of this demand? There are only two ways. While there are 15,000,000 depositors, and I do not hesitate to declare that in a conflict between the two the depositors have a prior claim to consideration."

THIS AND THAT

TELL THEIR PLANS

Southern Republicans Hope to Secure More Congressmen.

New York, Aug. 28.—Visitors from Virginia, Louisiana and Alabama made Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock familiar with some of the plans formulated by Republican politicians in the south for an increase in the Republican representation in congress from their states.

Plans for "the invasion of the south" were originally outlined by Judge William H. Taft in recent speeches and interviews in Hot Springs, Va. He expressed the opinion that an effort ought to be made by the Republican national campaign managers to carry close districts, and Mr. Hitchcock concurs in that view.

Secretary Straus of the department of commerce and labor had a long talk with Mr. Hitchcock. Mr. Straus is scheduled to deliver two or three speeches later in the campaign, one of them in New York city. It has been suggested that he should be used to reply to arguments made in favor of Mr. Bryan by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, but no plans have yet been made.

TOURNAMENT ENDS

Ohio Marksmen Prove Prowess in the Closing Events.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 28.—By winning the national pistol match, Sergeant C. E. Orr of Ohio captured the honors of the concluding event in the annual tournament held by the United States army.

These matches were held under the direction of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, and under the patronage of the United States government. The events ended the second annual tournament held here, and is said to have been the largest and most successful ever held in the history of the army. While the shooting has been in progress here throughout August, the first two weeks were given up to the contests held by the Ohio guardsmen and the Ohio Rifle association. The latter events were open to all. This was followed by a week of shooting by marksmen of the National Rifle association, likewise open to all.

The national team match was won by the United States infantry. The national individual rifle contest was won by Lieutenant A. Dale Rothrock of Ohio, all of the day's events, the concluding contests, thereby being captured by Ohio men.

In the rifle shoot the special prizes were given to Eustis J. P. Dotch of the navy, for the best score
